ROME, Aug. 26.—American armored columns occupied Avignon, Tarascon and Arles on the Rhone river and swung northward today in an unopposed drive up the Rhone's valley, ancient invasion route to central France and Germany.

(A BBC broadcast said American spearheads were reported 17 miles northeast of Agivnon.)

"A German communique said fierce fighting was in progress in the Rhone valley, where motorized American detachments "are attempting to prevent our movements in the direction of Lyon."

To the northeast, other American forces seized the fortress town of Briancon with the aid of French Maquis after a 16-mile advance through the French Alps from L'Argentiere to within five miles of the Italian border.

Briancon lies 20 miles south of the Turin-Lyon railway and only 50 miles west of the Italian industrial centre of Turin itself.

"Except for pockets of enemy resistance, notably at Toulon and Marseille, nearly all of southern France east of the Rhone and south of Avignon and Briancon now has

MOSCOW, Aug. 26. — Russian horsemen, tanks and infantry drove into the outskirts of Ismail on the Danube river estuary in Romania today and to the west began an assault on the Galati gap, last important barrier to Bucharest and Romania's rich oil and wheat fields.

(A German Transocean dispatch said the Russians have launched an offensive "of the greatest possible extent northeast of Warsaw," apparently in an attempt to outflank the Polish capital from the north and cut its communications with east Prussia.)

Field dispatches indicated that Don Cossacks who vowed to water their horses in the Danube, probably were doing so.

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1st CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 26.—(CP)—The 4th Canadian Armored Division has been fighting in France, and it took a leading part in the 1st Canadian Army's large-scale attack down the Caen-Falaise highway, and in the advance on Trun, southwest of Falaise, which closed the Normandy trap on Field Marshal Von Kluge's 7th German army.

Permission was given today to mention that this division was in the fighting in Normandy up to Aug. 18, and also it was permitted to mention that the Canadian 2nd and 3rd Infantry Divisions were in action until that date.

These three Canadian divisions were in the line together during the attack which began Aug. 8, with the 2nd Division and a British formation breaking through the first German defence line south of Caen.

Then the 4th Division and a Polish armored dvilsion passed through to penetrate the second German defence line screening Falaise.

Jesuit College Might Be Used For Home Units

There is a distinct possibility that United States Camp 550 and the Jesuit College, which had been used by the United States Engineers will be taken over by National Housing Administration for conversion into accommodation units to relieve the very serious housing shortage existing in the city.

Inspection of the camp and the college building was made Friday by Arthur Arnold, Ottawa, representative of the National Housing administration, and he stated after the inspection, that it was probable that the camp would be taken over by National Housing to provide temporary housing accommodation. He said also that the Jesuit College property might also be taken over.

Frank W. Nicholls, director of National Housing administration, will be in Edmonton towards the beginning of next week when it is probable that announcements concerning the taking over of both the camp and college properties will be made.

Peoples of Alsace-Lorraine, Luxembourg Warned They May Soon Be In Theatre of War

By VIRGIL PINKLEY

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Aug. 26.—Allied supreme headquarters today announced "that the elimination of the German 7th Army as a fighting entity has decided the battle of France" and warned the peoples of Alsace-Lorraine and Luxembourg that Allied invasion armies may "very soon" roll through their lands into Germany.

The statement by a high officer on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff came as United Kingdom and Canadian troops poured across the Risle river in pursuit of German forces in full retreat northeastward toward the Rhine and American armored spearheads were reported by the Nazis to be striking for the German border beyond Troyes and Reims.

A high staff officer broadcast the invasion proclamation early today, warning residents of the threatened area against helping the fleeing enemy or exposing themselves to the Allied air attacks which, he said, will be carried on by night and day wherever the German armies are to be found.

"The survivors of the Normandy battle and a handful of German divisions north of the Seine can at best fight a series of delaying actions on their retreat into Germany," he said.

"The areas in which you live are already today in the rear area of military operations. Very soon they may become a theatre of war."

Senator Warns Of Separatist Quebec Group

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP)—Loss of intellectual freedom in the province of Quebec since the days of Laurier is "a dark spot on the picture of the really intensive economic progress Quebec has made in these last decades," Sen. T. D. Bouchard told the Canadian Institute of Public affairs here yesterday.

"I have to confess that if freedom of the press and freedom of speech are guaranteed by our laws they hardly exist in fact", he said. "At least in one of our provinces the price of liberty of speech has gone up tremendously with the progress of the war for the four freedoms.

REVEAL HANDICAPS

"It is not in speaking in cellars that the truth will be known, and the French-Canadians who like me consider the Canadians of any racial decent as their compatriots, have an inalienable right to show their fellow citizens the handicaps under which they are working to help the internal peace and social progress of our common country.

"We have reached a point of separatist propaganda where those who dare contradict the preaching of the protagonists of the disintegration of confederation are condemned as bad French-Canadians, even traitors to the race as if we had a secret government to rule the destinies of our people.

"It is the self appointed rulers who have decided that the French-Canadians should have a distinctive flag, a state of their own on this continent; that it should be integrally Roman Catholic and that our economic form of government should be corporative."

TWO QUEBEC GROUPS

Two groups exist in Quebec, he said: "By far the largest, but unfortunately the less aggressive" favoring the Canadian form of political government. The other, "smaller but more active", leans to the creation of an independent state patterned on the totalitarian and racial form."

Referring briefly to his recent dismissal from the Quebec hydro commission following his Senate speech which charged the Jacques Cartier Order with fostering a movement for the setting up of an independent French and Catholic state in Canada, Senator Bouchard said:

"I am used to being severely blamed even by those who say in private the very same things they blame me for telling openly. This is a terrible crime I was guilty of when I spoke on the teaching of Canadian history—it cost me my hydro commission job. It proves that on the matter of freedom of speech in my province, the change has been in the last years towards reaction.

"It shows how wealthy are the citizens of other parts of our vast country, who can say in public, without being sure of starvation the day after, what most of the common people know and think."

New Department Of Government Asked by Labor

CALGARY, Aug. 26.—(CP)—A request to Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta that a new portfolio—that of post-war planning and rehabilitation—be included in his 1944 cabinet, is embodied in a resolution adopted by the Calgary Trades and Labor Council here last night. Delegates decided to recommend that a special committee, including representatives of labor from all parts of the province, be appointed to advise the new minister.

Vichy Liberated

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Allied soldiers strolled the streets of Paris today and Gen. Charles de Gaulle triumphantly set up headquarters in his liberated capital after surrender of the Nazi commander had ended German resistance except for a few isolated pockets.

As supereme Allied headquarters announced the cessation of virtually all hostilities in Paris, British United Press war correspondent Robert Richards filed a dispatch from the city, dated at 9:10 a.m., reporting that fighting had subdued and that the main concern now was the feeding of the 5,000,000 population.

Richards said that Allied troops were on every street corner and that jeep-towed trailers loaded with food were rolling into the city. Parisians were not starving, Richards said, but he was told that another month of German occupation would have created an acute food situation.

While Parisians luxuriated in their new found freedom, French interior forces broadcasting from a station they identified as Liberated Radio Vichy announced that Vichy, former seat of the French collaborationist government, also had been

Canadian Troops Cross Risle River to Threaten Cities of Rouen, Le Havre

after crossing the Marne River below Reims.

Headquarters announced that one American force broke into the railway hub of Troyes, 65 miles south of Reims, and about twice that distance from the Reich.

THRUST AT SEDAN

The Americans fanned out beyond the city and, according to a still-unconfirmed German report, raced northward to Reims in a thrust pointed straight at Sedan and the Forest of Ardennes, where the German army broke through the French "hinge" in 1940 and won the battle of France.

There was no immediate indication of the strength of the American columns now driving toward the Nazi frontier, but they were believed to be operating in considerable force with the aid of French partisan units known to be prowling through the countryside.

The reported American thrust pointed squarely across the path of the German 15th army, now in full flight eastward from the robot bomb coast, against which United Kingdom and Canadian forces were driving from the Risle River

Canadian First Army forces with Americans on their right and other British, Belgian and Dutch columns pounding along the coast, directly threatened Le Havre, Rouen and the Pas de Calais.

The core of the German flying bomb bases was now less than 30 miles from the advanced Allied positions and some installations have already been seized, headquarters said and the land thrust northward coupled with RAF and Allied aerial hammerings of the robot launching zone appeared to account for the lull in bombardment of London and southern England.

REACHED SEINE

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent, at the front said that United Kingdom and Canadian troops reached the Seine at Saint Pierre Du Vray, just northeast of Louvier last night and Belgian forces reached the line of the River Morette to linkup with British air borne forces advancing from Beuzeville.

Meanwhile, American tank columns broke into the French railway hub of Troyes, 130 miles from the German frontier and another armored task force was reported to have forced the Marne river 80 miles northeast of Paris and entered the cathedral city of Reims, cutting squarely across the path of the German armies retreating from northern France.

FANNED OUT

Tank spearheads of the American 3rd Army rumbled through Troyes yesterday and front dispatches indicated they had fanned out beyond that city to the northeast.

First word of the reported thrust into Reims came from German military commentators, who said the Allies crossed the Marne yesterday and lunged on 15 miles northward into the cathedral town.

Allied headquarters refused to confirm the German report of the capture of Reims which, if true, would place Allied armor within 10 miles of the Belgian border and completely outflank the German 15th army pulling back at top speed from the Dieppe-Amiens-Beauvais triangle above Paris.

Official sources confirmed the headlong flight of the German 15th Army from the channel coast, and aerial reconnaissance reports said the main highways leading eastward to the Rhineland were jammed with retreating Nazi troops and transport.

Allied warplanes bombed and strafed the fleeing enemy columns all day yesterday and on into the night, while other aerial formations piled the Seine river crossings high with Nazi dead and the wreckage of enemy tanks and equipment.

HEAVY DESTRUCTION

About 270 German trucks and 56 tanks were destroyed by rocket-firing RAF planes and Allied fighters along with 29 troops-packed barges caught on the Seine yesterday.

Allied ground forces crowded in from the west and south on the Seine pocket, moving in for the kill on an estimated 90,000 Germans squeezed against the river in a triangle measuring less than 300 square miles.

United Kingdom and Canadian spearheads plunged forward to link up with American 1st Army troops just south of Rouen and threatened momentarily to break into that key river port while other columns of Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's First Canadian Army from the west broke across the Risle river at half a dozen points and fanned out along the Seine estuary within artillery range of Le Havre.

Le Havre itself was reported a "dead" city, and Allied troops moved freely along the opposite bank of the Seine without drawing fire from the big German coastal batteries there.

Swarms of German mine-sweepers, torpedo boats and coastal craft jammed the harbor, however, in a desperate and apparently doomed effort to evacuate part of the garrison.

RAF warplanes smashed repeatedly at the Nazi evacuation fleet, sinking a number of vessels and turning most of them back into port.

ARMORED PATROLS

Below the vanishing Seine pocket, American and French troops fanned out on all sides of Liberated Paris, sending armored patrols across the Seine between Corbeil and Melun south of the city and on northward toward the Marne.

Far to the west, heavy fighting flared up around the besieged Breton port of Brest as American troops launched a climactic assault on the city under cover of a shattering air and sea bombardment. Swarms of bombers pounded the cornered enemy garrison while Allied warships, including the British battleship Warspite, poured round after round of high explosive shells into the port.

who ridiculed us most then are now accepting and putting into practice the principles we supported in 1935."

"Social Credit principles now being adopted at Ottawa are not being put into operation as they should be and the Dominion is having difficulty with them.

"The reason for the Dominion government's difficulties with the policies is that it has put them into effect not because it believes in them, but because of pressure of public opinion."

Examples of this trend at Ottawa cited by the minister, included floor prices for agricultural products, bonus payments by the Dominion on milk and hogs, debt-free money, and the new family allowance plan.

Statements by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to the effect that it is now known poverty is unnecessary in the midst of plenty, and that it is possible to carry out post-war reconstruction without increasing Canada's debt were said by Mr. Tanner to prove Social Credit theories regarding debt-free money.

"These things can only be done by issuance of debt-free money," the minister said.

The Social Credit win in the Alberta election should serve to humble party supporters, said Mr. Tanner. "We have nothing to boast about, other than we have an electorate that knows what it wants to have. We should go along determined to implement the peoples' wishes."

He said all party supporters should continue to teach principles of the Social Credit crusade, a responsibility touching everyone.

THANKS DELEGATES

Mr. Kuhl, thanking delegates for his acclamation nomination, said Alberta is in the forefront of a great crusade.

"We sometimes regard Social Credit as a political activity only. Social Crediters are involved in that which transcends by far political considerations."

"I believe that we people who sponsor Social Credit are the only people in the world who stand between slavery and freedom. That's why I feel honored to be called on to champion such a cause."

Albertans have started something, repercussions of which will be heard through the English-speaking world, Mr. Kuhl said.

As far as Canada was concerned, he said he was satisfied it was merely a question of acquainting Canadians with Social Credit policies. "Every last person in the Dominion is a Social Crediter but doesn't know it. We must acquaint them of the facts."

Mr. Willmore told delegates people of Alberta should be congratulated on the Social Credit victory in the Aug. 8 election. He urged all party workers to concentrate on the coming Dominion election campaign.

Mr. Jorgenson, president of the Alberta Social Credit League, said Alberta must keep the lead it has gained in Canadian affairs. "Alberta has always led the way and has always been the spearhead. We've got to keep the lead. The iron is hot and we must strike while the iron is hot. If all the people do their jobs, we will see victory when the Dominion election comes along," Mr. Jorgenson declared.

Mrs. Wood jibed at failure of the CCF party in the provincial election.

"Mr. Roper (CCF provincial leader) may brag about doubling CCF membership in the Legislature, but we've tripled the number of Social Credit women MLAs," she said. "In the Dominion election, we will do to the CCF in that field what we did to them in the provincial election."

during the two-day trial. Magistrate Beaumont said there was no doubt about the four men having stolen the automobile July 12, when they escaped from the Magrath hostel and fled towards the United States border.

The car was found abandoned about 16 miles south of the hostel and the escaped men were recaptured by police near Del Bonita and about four miles from the border July 13.

The four sent to prison are: Willys Hindler, Walter Baun, Alfred Muschiol and Hans George Schulte. Their prison terms date back to July 13, the day they were arrested for the theft and first charged.

It is the first time German prisoners of war have been convicted in an open, public court in Canada. In two previous trials, held in eastern Canada, accused prisoners of war were acquitted.

Ploesti, other Russian forces were chopping up 12 encircled German divisions—possibly 120,000 men—in a pocket below Chisinau.

The trapped Germans were reported on the verge of collapse and thousands were surrendering. Those still resisting were being slaughtered, dispatches said. Maj. Gen. Wernr Klepp commander of the German ninth infantry division, was among the prisoners.

Fierce fighting was raging along the approaches to the Danube delta, but the Germans rapidly were being driven into the river. The break-through into the outskirts of Ismail put the Russians within a few thousand yards of the northernmost of the three mouths of the Danube, some 40 miles inland from the Black Sea.

The 2nd and 3rd Ukrainian armies, joining for a decisive advance on Bucharest and Ploesti after snapping the trap below Kishinev, began their attack on Galati and Focsani, keys to the vital 49-mile gap between the Danube and the Transylvania Alps, from positions some 15 miles to the north.

ROMANIANS TURN

German resistance was reported crumbling everywhere on the Romanian front, with Romanian troops sporadically turning their guns against their former allies in compliance with Romania's declaration of war against the Reich.

(A BBC broadcast said the Russian sweep in Romania was "no longer a rout, but merely a mopping-up operation." The road to Bucharest appeared to be open, the broadcast said, and the Russians should arrive there within a few days.)

DISARMING NAZIS

There was no indication, however the Romanians generally were aiding in disarming of the Germans. A dispatch to the Army organ Red Star reported the sole instance of effective collaboration occurred in the Tyhrguniamtz area of northwest Moldavia. There a Romanian regiment suddenly turned its guns on a German division and killed many of its members, then surrendered more than 360 German prisoners to the Red Army.

The Romanians, who had lost more than half their army in previous battles and the bulk of the remainder in the present offensive, were believed incapable of rendering effective aid in the expulsion of the Germans from the Balkans, which remains the principal job of the Russians and their Allies.

Large Amounts U.S. Equipment Left in North

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The U.S. Army reported yesterday that large amounts of supplies and equipment are being abandoned along the Alaska highway because they are not worth the cost of shipping home.

The army report was issued after charges were made in the Canadian House of Commons that army engineers were destroying serviceable materials as they closed up approximately 150 camps along the Alaska highway. Lt.-Gen. Brehon Somervell sent Col. Curtis Pratt of the army service forces to investigate.

SUPPLIES DISCARDED

Col. Pratt's report, the department said, disclosed that supply dumps he inspected contained "large amounts of material not worth shipping home, but none the less still serviceable.

The salvage agreement with Canada, Col. Pratt said, does not provide a practical method for selling such materials locally to private interests, and they have been left in Canada for final disposition.

A summary of Col. Pratt's report made public by the war department, covered these points:

(1) No buildings containing supplies were burned, and there was no evidence of the burning of any property except equipment officially condemned as of no further economic use.

(2) The military situation at the time of construction made the highway project a rough job, and substantial amounts of automotive and construction equipment so damaged or worn as to be unreliable on the spot were left along the route.

COLLECT EQUIPMENT

(3) As construction was completed, maintenance equipment was set aside and action was started to collect all other equipment deemed valuable enough for salvage.

"It is unfortunately true that in some cases serviceable tires were not removed from abandoned construction equipment. On discovery of this fact immediate orders were issued for removal of such tires and their shipment back to the United States."

(4) Return of surplus to the United States was limited to "critical" materials and other property having value enough to justify cost of transportation." No critical materials were found in the dumps which did contain serviceable supplies.

INCLUDED CLOTHING

(5) At Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, the accumulated property included "large quantities of non-repairable clothing and stoves, ranges and oil drums in varying states of disrepair." All parts constituting heavy scrap were returned to the U.S., but light scrap was left.—"Hence it is evident that reports of large dumps in the vicinity of Fort St. John and Dawson Creek had a factual basis, and the material there may appear to have considerable value in the eyes of the local inhabitants, who have a most frugal economy."

(6) "In the light of the magnitude of the work and difficult conditions of weather and terrain, the investigation indicates reasonable diligence was employed in care and utilization of equipment. Every effort has been and is being made by responsible officials on the spot to segregate and return to the United States material worth returning, abandoning only that not worth the cost of evacuation."

Officers said that Col. Pratt found no evidence that medical stores had been destroyed.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26—(CP)—Arrangements for the disposal of surplus United States government supplies which are not taken back to the United States have not yet been completed, it was learned yesterday.

Munitions Minister Howe told the Commons a few weeks ago that the government was seeking an arrangement whereby the Canadian government could act as agent for the United States and dispose of material not wanted by the United States forces, remitting the proceeds of sales to the United States government.

regent, and most members of the former government were under the "protective custody" of Gestapo agents.

Other Swiss reports said Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, had gone to Budapest in a desperate effort to prevent Hungary's defection from the Nazi cause.

The Free German radio in Moscow quoted Turkish sources that fierce fighting had broken out all over Greece between German occupation troops and Greek irregulars.

The same station said it had learned Foreign Minister Parvan Draganov of Bulgaria was severing diplomatic relations with the Reich.

Though there was no immediate confirmation of the report, Bulgaria was known to have asked for armistice terms from Britain and the United States following the withdrawal of all Nazi troops from her territory. London and Washington were believed framing their reply.

Russia has maintained relations with Bulgaria throughout the war.

DECLARED WAR

Romania declared war against Germany yesterday after German forces attacked and machine-gunned both Bucharest and numerous other towns and villages despite a pledge to refrain from hostilities while withdrawing from the country.

"The government therefore has ordered the Romanian army to begin a struggle against all German military forces on Romanian territory for liberation of the country from German usurpation," a Romanian announcement said.

It reported that German planes had "savagely attacked" Bucharest, aiming particularly at the royal palace. Dispatches reaching London said the Germans had blown up part of the palace, but did not make clear whether the explosion was caused by an aerial bomb.

The Polish force operated on the Canadians' far left flank. While the 3rd and 4th divisions and the Polish force engaged strong enemy forces northeast of Falaise the 2nd division attacked the city and captured it on Aug. 17. WITH THE 1st CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 26.—(CP Cable)—The first Canadian regiment to reach the Seine is believed to have been the 18th Canadian Armored Car Regiment (12th Manitoba Dragoons) which dashed from the Risle River to link with the Americans near Louviers yesterday and then went on to the banks of the Seine at St. Pierre Du Vauvray.

They probably will get official credit for being there first. All the way from the Trun Gap the Dragoons have been pushing out along roads far in advance of the main Canadian forces. Their reconnaissances have greatly aided the spectacular advance eastward.

CANADA'S OVERSEAS MILITARY SET-UP

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Aug. 26—(CP)—Canada's entire overseas military establishment, the 1st Army headquarters organization, two corps headquarters, five divisions and two army tank brigades now are in action against the enemy in Italy and France.

The overseas military organization grew out of the 1st Division which was organized on the outbreak of war and went overseas in December, 1939.

The actual Canadian representation on the soil of France is smaller in number now than in the last war but vastly greater in power by reason of its armor and weapons.

THREE IN FRANCE

In the last war the old Canadian Corps grew from one division to four and the four fought through the turning stages of the war in 1918. This time there are three Canadian divisions in France and two in Italy, along with the 1st Army Tank Brigade in Italy and the second, at a point not yet disclosed, but probably in France.

In Italy the 1st Corps, commanded by Lt.-Gen. Christopher Vokes of Ottawa, which fights with the British 8th Army, contains the 1st Division and the Fifth Armored Division. In France the 1st Canadian Army contains the 2nd Corps, commanded by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., which in turn is made up of the 2nd, 3rd and 4th (Armored) Divisions. Also in the 1st Canadian Army are Polish, Belgian, Dutch and perhaps French troops.

In France for the first time in history Canada has an army in the strict military sense of a particular kind or organization in action. As distinguished from the army, meaning the entire military force of a country, an "army," in the sense of a military formation, means one or more corps with necessary headquarters organization and supporting formations, operating under a single command.

The 1st division went overseas December, 1939; the 2nd July, 1940; the 3rd, August, 1941; the 4th Sept., 1942, and the 5th November, 1941. The 4th started out as an infantry division, but was changed over to an armored division and so, while organized earlier than the 5th was later in getting overseas.

been liberated," Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme Mediterranean commander, announced in his daily communique.

ARSENAL CAPTURED

French forces waging a battle of annihilation against the encircled German garrison in Tuolon further compressed the enemy pocket yesterday, capturing the maritime arsenal, the fort of Colle Noire and Cape Brun.

Dana Adams Schmidt, British United Press war correspondent, reported from Toulon that though most of the naval base city had been cleared of Germans, the enemy still was resisting stubbornly from Fort Malbousquet dominating the main road from Toulon to Marseille and from the Napoleon coastal forts on the St. Mardrier peninsula.

British and Allied warships and planes continued to join land artillery in bombarding strong points in Toulon. An American destroyer landed a small force of French troops without opposition on the Giens peninsula, 11 miles southeast of Toulon, after a heavy attack on the area.

In Marseille, French troops consolidated their positions and attacked an enemy pocket around Notre Dame De La Garde in an effort to complete the liberation of France's second largest city.

CAPTURE ANTIBES

At the opposite end of the Riviera, American troops pushed four miles northeast of Cannes and captured the resort town of Antibes, 10 miles southwest of Nice.

Allied destroyers engaged enemy coastal batteries on the islands below Cannes and started numerous fires, including one in an oil storage depot. Several gun emplacements were destroyed.

liberated. The announcement was coupled with an appeal for order among the people of Vichy.

The virtual end of fighting in Paris came only a few hours after the surrender of the Nazi commander, Supreme Allied headquarters announced.

The German commander signed a six-point surrender demand last night and then toured the city with Allied officers, ordering his troops manning strong points to lay down their arms, a headquarters spokesman said.

SOME RESISTANCE REMAINS

The spokesman acknowledged that some resistance still was being encountered at Davron, 15 miles west of the centre of Paris, and possible in isolated parts of the capital, but the surrender terms provided that any German troops who ignored the "cease fire" order no longer would come under the "laws of war and could be summarily shot as guerrillas when captured."

The Nazi commander, whose name was not disclosed, surrendered to Brig. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc, commander of the French 2nd armored division, first Allied army unit to break into the city.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's daily western front communique said "More Allied armor and infantry are in Paris following the entrance of the 2nd French armored division Friday morning, and all resistance in the southern and southwestern outskirts has been overcome."

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN

The headquarters spokesman later amended the announcement to include the quelling of virtually all resistance in the city. Thousands of prisoners were believed to have been taken, but the total was not announced.

(A Berlin broadcast for German consumption said the surrender order was "forged and freely invented" and claimed that Nazi troops still were fighting inside the French capital.)

De Gaulle entered Paris at 7 p.m. (11 a.m. MDT) yesterday while Allied tanks and troops, aided by tens of thousands of partisans, still were battling Germans and collaborationists in the streets and buildings of the world's fourth largest city and first Allied capital to be liberated in this war.

His arrival ended an Odyssey that began in June, 1940, with his departure—alone of the Reynaud government, in which he was under-secretary of war—for England, there to rally under the fighting French banner the forces that eventually were to rise up and help free his beloved France.

Iroquois Raises Bag to 20 Ships

By LIEUT. WESSLEY HICKS
Royal Canadian Navy

ABOARD H.M.C.S. IROQUOIS AT SEA, Aug. 26—(CP)—A night-long channel battle Wednesday saw H.M.C.S. Iroquois under Comdr. J. C. Hibbard of Halifax and Victoria go into action for the third time in three weeks and increase her score to 20 German ships destroyed and three damaged with assistance in all actions from the British cruiser Mauritius and destroyer Ursa.

In the darkness three enemy ships were sighted 30 miles from Brest. The Iroquois, in the van of the Allied ships, opened fire, setting the foremost ship ablaze immediately. The other two enemy ships returned fire and missiles richocheted all around us but heavy fire from the cruiser left them in flames too.

Two hours later four more enemy ships were sighted. The Iroquois, again in the van, scored four direct hits on the first vessel. Salvoes from the Ursa then hit her and she sank. Two of the remaining vessels ran for Audierme harbor but ran ashore and under the guns of Allied forces they too were soon burning.

Majority of Five Sure For Duplessis

LA MALBAIE, Que., Aug. 26.—(CP)—Premier-elect Duplessis today is assured of an over-all margin of five supporters in the new Quebec legislature after Dr. Arthur LeClerc, Union Nationale candidate, Thursday routed his only opponent—Donat LaCroix, Independent—in the deferred provincial election in Charlevoix-Saguenay.

The complete results in the far-flung riding gave Dr. LeClerc 11,264 votes and LaCroix 2,946, after returns from the 125-poll constituency came in less than five hours after the polls closed, an all-time record for Charlevoix-Saguenay.

Mr. Duplessis had already taken 47 seats in the general elections of Aug. 8. Liberals took 37 seats, the Bloc Populaire, four, CCF, one, and Nationalist, one.

Election of Dr. LeClerc was conceded by returning officer L. P. Dufour an hour after the polls closed.

There was no Liberal candidate in Thursday's election.

De Gaulle Says French Forces To Enter Reich

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Speaking to cheering crowds in front of the prefecture in Paris, Gen. de Gaulle proclaimed last night the liberation of Paris and declared "We will not rest until we march into enemy territory as conquerors."

The president of the French Committee of National Liberation, back in the capital after four years of fighting from exile, told his exultant listeners: "France will take her place among the great nations which will organize the peace."

His speech was broadcast by the Paris radio and the shouting and singing of the crowd could be clearly heard, repeatedly interrupting the French leader.

RIGHTS ABROAD

"France has rights abroad," Gen. de Gaulle continued. "France is a great nation and she has rights which she will know how to make heard.

"She has the right to security.

"She has the right to insist that she never again be invaded by the enemy who so often has invaded her.

"She has the right to be in the first line among the great nations who are going to organize the peace and life of the world.

"Men and women, we are here in a Paris which stood erect and rose in order to free herself—a Paris oppressed, downtrodden and martyred, but still Paris.

FREED BY FRENCH

"Paris is free now—freed by the hands of Frenchmen—the capital of fighting France, of France the great eternal.

"It is not enough that with the aid of our dear and splendid Allies we should drive the enemy from our soil. After what happened to France, we will not rest or be satisfied until we enter—as is only right—upon the enemy's own soil as conquerors.

"We are going to fight on to the last day—to a day of total and complete victory."

Ottawa Rejects Plea to Cancel Soldiers' Debts

made during the last 25 years to ease financial burdens, correct errors of judgment and to compensate for adverse climatic or economic factors. He said these adjustments totalled $44,404,751.

Mr. Crerar continued:

"The adjustments . . . plus a great improvement in agricultural conditions during the last five years, have brought about a situation which, with very few exceptions, has enabled soldier settlers to meet the terms of their contracts without hardships and to made rapid progress in paying off their remaining indebtedness in full.

"This is evidenced by facts for which great credit is due soldier settlers generally. The contract instalments which matured during the fiscal years 1939-40 to 1943-44, inclusive, total $5,230,641. The payments made with respect to these maturities totalled $4,506,225 and in addition thereto soldier settlers made pre-payments to a total of $1,293,235.

1,648 GIVEN TITLES

"During this same period 1,648 soldier settlers completed their loan agreements and received titles to their lands. Although many of these contracts still had several years to run.

"Up to Aug. 19 last 5,358 soldier settlers had paid off their loans in full. On the same date there were 5,696 whose agreements were still in force. Repayments and pre-payments are being made in increasing amounts, which is factual evidence that soldiers settlers . . . are taking advantage of favorable conditions in agriculture to free their lands from encumbrance."

He then referred to an order-in-council, which terminated Dec. 31, 1943, under which soldier settlers could apply for a reduction of indebtedness, he added that there were 542 applications still to be dealt with, but after adjustment operations were completed reductions would have been made in approximately 1,550 cases, of which 80 per cent originated in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Five men from Edmonton who recently returned with a large group of Canadian Army personnel on the hospital ship, Lady Nelson, are shown travelling together on a train bringing them west. Left to right are Craftsman R. D. McArthur; Lt.-Col. K. A. Hamilton, original medical officer of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment; RSM C. A. MacDonald, who was mentioned in dispatches from the Italian front in March of this year; Sgt. A. G. Having reached the west, members of this party have dispersed.

Dear ,

So many things have happened this week that it is difficult to keep up with them and to form a picture of the general situation the world over. Momentous events are taking place hourly, and the rapid changes in military positions are keeping us busy following the troops overseas on our maps. The tremendous gains in Normandy, Brittany and in Southern France, the liberation of Paris, the capitulation of Romania—these and other events are holding our interest here and our thoughts are with you boys at all times. Here on the home front the crops are being cut, and harvesting soon will be general. The yield will be heavy in this area. The annual flower show gave further evidence of the many lovely varieties of blooms that can be grown here. The week has been featured by the longest spell of good weather we have had in a long time, although there have been some showers. Here are some of the highlights of home events in which you may be interested.

George Green of Dodgers placed third with .313. A run by Mike Milner in the fifth inning at Kingsway Park enabled the USAAF Officers to shut out the US Enlisted Men 1-0 and move into the finals of the City Men's Fastball League playoffs.

Promotion of Constable Hamilton "Tiny" Lyttle to the post of patrol sergeant was announced by Chief Constable Reginald Jennings. Sergeant Lyttle has been a member of the city police force since February 1919, and he served in the last war with the 49th Battalion.

Accumulating funds for post war replacements and extensions of the civic utilities more than $750,000 was placed in renewal reserve accounts during the first seven months of this year, it was disclosed in a report filed with the city commissioners.

James A. Marshall, Social Credit member of parliament for Camrose, has been nominated to contest his riding in the next Dominion election.

August 26

Walter Kuhl, member of parliament for the Dominion constituency of Jasper-Edson was nominated to contest the seat again, at a convention held here. The new chapel building at the United States Army Air Station here will be opened tomorrow. There will be special services to which the public has been invited.

Indications are that the week-end weather will be fair and warm.

That's all for now.

Best of everything until next week.

STEEL + CHROME = STAINLESS STEEL

RUBBER + VITALIN

means Firestone VITAMIC RUBBER

THE effects of atmospheric conditions on the rusting of ordinary steel is well known to all. By the same chemical action, the oxygen of the air causes deterioration of rubber compounds.

Just as the addition of proper alloying metals to ordinary steel prevents rust and corrosion, so does the addition of Firestone's Vitalin to ordinary rubber—synthetic or natural—prevent corrosion due to oxidation or from sunlight.

But this isn't the only advantage of Vitamic Rubber. Being fortified with Vitalin, Firestone tires are greatly improved in toughness, durability and heat resistance. And these all add up to even longer life and mileage. When you obtain your Tire Ration Certificate, insist on having Firestone Vitamic Rubber tires.

Purchasing Power First

Premier Stuart Garson of Manitoba says he hesitates to endorse the federal government's family allowances plan because he fears it may be intended to take the place of other social security measures such as health insurance.

He bases his apprehension upon the statement of Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the family allowances bill would "provide purchasing power where it is needed." This, he says, inclines him to believe that the bill may be "only incidentally a social service measure, but primarily an instrument of fiscal policy."

Premier Garson is an astute and experienced leader. And perhaps the confusion into which he has fallen may have entrapped others.

As it happens, the very thing that causes Premier Garson apprehension should reassure him. If Prime Minister King had not designated family allowances as a means of affording purchasing power where it is needed, there might be some cause to suspect that the measure was a sop to replace other social security plans. But the fact that he did mention purchasing power, thereby repudiating the financial policy of his minister of finance, indicates that he has touched the root of the whole national problem and that the social security program will actually take on new meaning.

For it is lack of purchasing power that impoverishes Canadians and threatens the future of the country. There is no production problem. Canada has shown that she can plunge two million men into abnormal jobs producing abnormal goods, four-fifths of which are given away under the war program, without interfering too seriously with the supply of consumer goods.

There will never, then, be any doubt of her ability to produce. But there is serious doubt of the ability of her people to buy. That is why the Prime Minister made the most significant statement of his career when he emphasized the need for purchasing power.

Mr. Ilsley's policy is to freeze salaries, seize a great part of them in income tax and drain off the rest in victory loans. Such a course may be indicated, under certain circumstances, in wartime. But in peacetime this complete dissolution of purchasing power will disrupt industry, impoverish the country and plunge every individual into hopeless debt.

Family allowances, health insurance, old age pensions and every other form of social security would be useless without providing purchasing power. That, indeed, is the sole purpose of social security measures, to provide purchasing power.

Surely Mr. Garson need not be too apprehensive.

Cautious Sweden

One of the remarkable features of this war has been the amazing caution of Sweden. The Swedish government has pursued a tortuous course between British and German friendship, always with an eye on the main chance, and has managed to do very well for itself without earning to any marked degree, the heated recriminations of either side.

It is true that Sweden has not gained the admiration of the world, as Norway and Denmark have done, for a bold and determined stand in the face of adversity. But while one may question Swedish feelings of humanity and even Swedish good faith, there are those who will admire Swedish shrewdness in diplomacy and the Swedish ability to pick up an honest or dishonest dollar while the rest of the world is floundering in blood.

As a current example of this caution, we have the announcement that Sweden has broken off relations with Vichy.

The best part of France is in the hands of the Allies. The Germans are scuttling for home. Laval is a fugitive in Germany. Old Petain is a guest of the Gestapo.

And Sweden recognizes this debacle by breaking off relations!

What spectacular diplomatic display are her statesmen reserving to mark the collapse of Germany?

Religious Education

Ontario, it is announced, will experiment with a new course in religious education which will be given in grades one and two when the school term reopens September 5.

One might suppose that Premier Drew, sponsor of the step, would be taken more seriously in his role of religious educator had he not attacked with such bitterness the practical Christianity inherent in the family allowances bill.

However, all Mr. Drew's inconsistencies cannot detract from the importance of this particular experiment. It is more than an additional subject on the curriculum. It is an endeavor to provide a reasonable background for the curriculum. For all education is predicated—must be predicated—upon spiritual values.

We are coming to the close of a great war which has been fought on almost entirely spiritual issues—the survival of honor and decency and kindliness and humanity against organized and deliberate mendacity, brutality and greed.

It would be the most ironical circumstance in the world if, having asked the present generation to die for these things, we should deny the right of the next generation to learn about them in the schools.

Opposition to religious education in the schools has taken the form of objecting to making the schools hotbeds of doctrinal dispute. It is a sound objection a far as it goes. Unhappily our religious creeds are separated by dogmatic morasses.

But it is to be noted that doctrinal splits occur usually in the higher phases of religious teaching. Among all the creeds there is a common ground. That common ground is a shared belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. That is the basis of al civilized religions.

Certainly no suspicion of indoctrination could attach itself to the teaching of these cardinal beliefs. And that, for the present, is as far as religious education in the schools need go.

Ontario's experiment should be watched with interest.

The Italian Situation

The suggestion has been recently made that former Premier Orlando might be called back to power in Italy. Orlando, it will be recalled, was Italy's leader during the First Great War and was numbered, with Woodrow Wilson, David Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau, among the "big four" who dominated the peace assembly at Versailles.

What will be recalled even more vividly is that Orlando was the leader of the Italian faction that almost broke up the peace conference through the extravagance of its demands.

For a very mediocre and offhand showing in the war, Orlando and his followers insisted that Italy should be permitted to run wild along the Adriatic and plunder the former Austro-Hungarian Empire at will.

In short, Orlando demonstrated that he had not the slightest idea of restraint in international relationships and was on hand to squeeze the last drop of juice out of the international pie for the greedy Italians.

The situation in Italy does not look very hopeful if the Italians can produce no more acceptable leader than this.

The Edmonton Board of Trade has sent a memorial to the CPR asking for a further reduction in freight rates to Calgary and the coast cities. The Board is asking for a rate that will enable grain shippers here to compete with shippers in the western states, at Vancouver and Victoria. The rate asked is 28 cents, instead of the present rate of 35 cents. The memorial also points out that while the rate to Victoria is 35 cents, the rate to Ashcroft, this side of Yale, is 56½ cents.

It is proposed to form a cricket association for the Northwest Territories, and arrange for championship matches.

The Chinese are ordering flour from Vancouver in order to carry on their little war. With the prospects of a short crop and a war on hand, Van Horne may come out of the prophet business with a margin on the right side yet.

Toronto.—A pneumatic tire skate has been invented by a Toronto man, with which the inventor claims he can travel on asphalt pavement at 40 miles an hour. The invention is called a bicycle skate, stands 10 inches high, has ball-bearings and spring rests for the feet and ankle supports.

Of the wood buffalo shot in the Athabasca district this season only one specimen has found its way to Edmonton. This was brought down last week by J. Carleton from Fort Chipewyan. The hide is 10 feet in length. The wood buffalo is fast becoming extinct. The Indians hunt them whenever they can find them. In season or out is the same to them.

Germans Became "Idiotic Bores" to People of Paris

Disgust Not Oppression Was Heaviest Cross French Carried

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Today it is difficult to recapture the feeling that gripped the world in June, 1940, when Paris fell, and with Paris, France. Men's hearts and minds were paralyzed. Even in America, months before this war had become our own, there was anguish, and a terrible fear that as far as continental Europe was concerned, western civilization had gone.

Thompson
Dorothy

Militarily, there was no continental counter-balance. Russia stood aloof, neutral, mysterious. There were few who believed Britain could survive, or do more than hold out for a compromise peace. With the fall of Paris, America had become more isolated than in her entire history—a big island, covered only by a little island, rocking under siege.

In a political sense it was the great break-through of Fascism, that seemed chosen by destiny to rule the world. In Paris a quick-eyed camera caught a picture of Adolf Hitler in a capering, mincing dance of joy.

From London the last steady voice in Europe promised his people no victory, but "sweat, blood, and tears."

So overwhelming was the German force, so swift and disastrous the defeat, that it seemed like an act of nature, and at the outset was accepted with a kind of fatalism, as something pre-ordained. In that moment the Germans appeared, even to their victims, as supermen. As they marched through the city, tall, clean, superbly clothed, with the shining rivers of their strange, gleaming, irresistible machines, they awakened a reluctant admiration. From Vichy Petain's wavering voice deepened the French feelings of inferiority. Perhaps it was in the logical nature of things that the strong should win and rule.

Thus a capricious woman, mastered against her will, may feel a certain dependency and security in the strength and desire of her master. There was something of that, for a brief moment, in France. Who knows? It might have lasted—if the master had not started to re-educate her. That is always the German mistake.

And ordinary men do not remain supermen for four years. A parade is one thing; an occupation is another. Parisians began to see Germans with their boots off. A successful occupation army must understand the country and the people whom it rules. The Germans could not understand Paris. When they ceased to be conquering tourists they were homesick strangers. Bit by bit they became not so oppressive, but—ridiculous.

In the latitude of the spirit it is farther from Berlin to Paris than from Berlin to Moscow or London.

The spirt of Paris is wiry and tough; the German spirit heavy and brittle. Parisians are conventional but not disciplined; tolerant but exclusive; skeptical but not credulous; witty, not humorous; lucid, and never sentimental.

Paris is the city of Pissarro, Seurrat, Utrillo, who convey its beauty in light and vibrancy, a manner of seeing and painting that no German has ever mastered, in art or in life. Despite that it was rebuilt by Napoleon the conqueror, it is not monumental but graceful. Nothing is overblown; everything is in moderation. Moderation is so un-German that the Germans make vices out of their very virtues, committing, as George Bernard Shaw remarked back in 1901, hideous crimes but always and only in the name of duty. The Parisians care little for "order". But they have equilibrium. Nor is their laugh the belly-howl of farce, but the fine grin of comedy. In Paris the satyr is a satirist.

Thus, years from now, when the sufferings of these four years are dimmed, I am sure it will be no French tragedian who will immortalize the four years of German occupation, but a new Moliere, making of it a high comedy—the kind of comedy that destroys, forever, with irony.

The crumbling of the German prestige began with the Parisians long before their armies began to disintegrate. Paris continued to belong to the Parisians. The Germans were everywhere and everywhere on the outside. They wanted to be liked. They strutted their stuff. They wooed the already conquered. When that happens, however, a man is lost. Rejected, the Germans resumed the masterly role and shot those who repulsed them. But nothing is more ridiculous than a superman, wavering between presenting bouquets and battering down the door. I am sure that the Parisian feeling today is, "Thank God the British and Americans are coming to remove these idiotic bores."

The Germans in Paris have suffered far more than a military defeat. They have suffered a psychological defeat, which in the long run will trouble and confuse them more. Not defeat even will do most to break the German spirit, but defeat coming atop years of unchallenged victory—and victory that proved pure illusion.

Four Editorials

Editor, Bulletin: Allow me to congratulate you on the four editorials in your edition of the nineteenth instant, and might I be permitted to make the following remarks regarding them, viz:

"National Education". Suggest you publish verbatim Mr. W. L. Brockington's recent address in Winnipeg before the teachers' convention.

"CKUA's License". What else could one expect from the present setup of the CBC?

"Sunspots". An admirable alibi, but surely it will not eclipse the present hoary one, viz: "The War".

Quebec Election

Editor, Bulletin: The "showdown" in the Quebec provincial election sent in by your reporter from Quebec was well written, particularly were he writes of "a civil war."

The program of Le Bloc Populaire in Quebec reveals that it would attempt to establish on this continent an economic medievalism of the Holy Roman Empire.

This Le Bloc Populaire would set up a clerical Fascist state in Quebec, allied in concept to those of Europe and South America. The bloc proposes "that order can be reintroduced into society only by the agency of a powerful professional organization."

U.S. Organization

Editor, Bulletin: When the German hordes were overrunning Europe, making slaves of the occupied countries; when the Jews were being slaughtered, when the peoples of Europe were being raped and ravished by the Germans and Great Britain was fighting with her back against the wall, our total conscription exponents (the Technocrats) said Canada must keep out of the war.

The big shot Technocrat from the United States was hollering his mouth off at our prime minister to keep Canada out of the war and to blazes with the poor people suffering under Hitler. This American organization was banned in Canada.

Since the United States went into the war, we have got to have total conscription. Some day the people of Canada will get wise to themselves and tell this Yankee Fascist outfit to get back to the States and stay there. We Canadians can handle our own affairs without American interference. Fellow Canadians, get wise to yourselves, don't be played for a bunch of suckers. The Quislings of Europe sold out to Hitler, and the Quislings in this country will sell you out if they get a chance.

Technocracy means that Canada will do exactly what they are told to do by the United States.

National People

Editor Bulletin: When Tim Buck addressed an overcrowded hall at Grimshaw he succeeded in drawing a cheer from his house quite often by taking a jab at Mackenzie King, the premier of our country. But, when George Sterling, MLA for Salmon Arm, B.C., happened to take a jab at the Premier of Great Britain while addressing a political meeting at Fairview his house went into a mob and broke up the meeting.

These two episodes demonstrate the theory but one step further, which theory is harbored by no small number of people, which is, the Canadians are not a national people but they are a colonial people. With them all great deeds are, and must be done, in good old Blighty. All great men are in the House of Lords. All political giants are buried in Westminster Abbey, the crypt of St. Paul's cathedral or Windsor Castle. Yes the two episodes referred to in my beginning but too seriously demonstrate the fact that the Canadian is ready, yea, ever ready, to wave his hat for the President of the United States, shout for the Premier of Great Britain, cheer for the Premier of Russia, but, give his own premier a jab, regardless of whether the premier's name is Bennett or King.

Some time ago I made a trip of a number of weeks duration. In that time I was on buses, trains, electric cars and boats. I was in stations, depots, and peers. I lingered around hotels and other public places. But, while the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes were on every wall, and the pictures of Roosevelt and Churchill were everywhere, pictures of the American eagle, the Russian bear, the sickle and hammer very conspicuous, yet I did not see a picture of our maple leaf, a picture of our beaver, a picture of our premier or pictures of any of our public men.

I did not see a picture or symbol of any kind that would lead one to the idea that one was in a country that was known as Canada.

Hence, are we a colonial or a national people, or, what are we?

Gratuities

Editor, Bulletin: All true Canadians welcome wholeheartedly the announcement by the Prime Minister of the gratuities to be paid to our men overseas when they return to us; if all that is possible is done for them it will make us all feel a lot better. There is another aspect of this proposal, a verey important one, that does not seem to have occurred to anyone and that is the immense benefit to the nation as a whole the infusion of $780,000,000 into our economic life will be at the most critical time in Canada's history.

If Mackenzie King would just go one step further by ignoring economic public enemy No. 1, the Minister of Finance, Mr. Ilsley, and introduce an old age pension scheme to provide every Canadian on reaching the age of sixty years with an income of one hundred dollars a month for the rest of their life, whether they need it or not, and abolish that most despicable measure, the means test, our home market would then be assured for some time to come and the myth of international trade which is a positive hindrance to any possibility of permanent prosperity could be forgotten; all we need is free trade with the U.S.A. and we would let the rest of the world go hang.

In this connection the writer would like to quote from "The Western Producer" of August 15 date as follows: "The chief danger of the export trade ramp which is now being carried on with so much fervor from Bretton Woods down is that it may divert, as its purpose is to divert, attention from the main problem. That problem is: with or without benefit of international trade means must be devised within each country to distribute amongst its own people the goods and services they are able to produce. Foreign trade in the days ahead is too unpredictable a factor to be made the foundation for national prosperity. It may well be allowed to look after itself and indeed will probably function much more smoothly if it is relegated to the position of comparative unimportance which its proper function deserves. Beardsley Ruml, an orthodox economist, gave expression to this view when he wrote recently "We must succeed at home if we are to succeed abroad. Our great contribution to world peace and freedom can only be made if we are able to use our unparalelled advantages in establishing here, at home, a high standard of prosperity and democracy."

Criticizes Premier

Editor, Bulletin: In your edition of August 4 I must take exception to a paragraph of Premier's King's as to the disposition of Japs after the war.

"It could not be suggested that the presence of some tens of thousands of persons of Jap origin in a nation of 11,000,000 odd constituted a menace." What a different tale would have been told if the Jap battleships had been knocking at our door and had effected a landing.

It is not necessary to state where the sympathies of the supposedly loyal Japs would lie and what a spicy diversion they would have been able to create. Our 11,000,000 odd population is not all fighting material when a person considers of what it consists and the foreign element which is in it, most of whom will not uphold the country from which they receive benefits.

Premier King's idea of dispersing the Japs throughout Canada, giving a quota to each province and owing to the fecundity of the Jap race is to revive the old matter again a few years hence by each separate province.

Premier King was voted in for a government by the people, of the people, for the people. I am sure every true Canadian desires to see the Japs go and now is the opportunity which we should not let slip by us. We all should give a united and very decided voice to this very important matter.

Way of Life

Editor Bulletin: The people of western democracies are misguided by the philosophical fallacy that "democracy" is the right way of life. This is what Abraham Lincoln advocated but it has led to social, political and economic chaos in our day.

If we want social, political and economic security and happiness we must again be inspired by the words in the preface of John Wycliffe's original Bible. "This Bible is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Wycliffe was right! Abraham Lincoln was careless for he omitted to say in definite terms that the Word of God was the true basis of government for individuals and nations.

Democracy (demos-cratis; people ruling) is dangerous unless the Word of God guides the individuals of the nation first.

British Rule

Editor, Bulletin: I trust the Progressive Conservative party will not allow its efforts to re-establish British rule in Canada to die with the passing of the excellent resolution which recently appeared in your paper.

I say restore British rule, which, as we all know, means a fair deal for all, which is something our French-dominated government at Ottawa has lost sight of. Statistics on enlistments, Victory Loan subscriptions, or any other phase of Canada's war effort, will quickly show how solidly Quebec control has established itself in Canada.

Let us have a little more of the aggressive support from the Progressive Conservatives, who have never wavered in their allegiance to things British.

Applying Lipstick Is Real Art

Most Authorities Advise The Blotting Off of the Excess

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Since almost every woman uses lipstick, I thought it would be interesting to delve into its application. So here are the results of a survey of opinions and advice of leading New York and Hollywood experts.

First let's find out how to apply lipstick. Follow the natural line of the lips. If they are exceptionally full cheat a bit so that the lipstick line is indented slightly from the natural line. If the lips are thin cheat a little the other way.

Retain the true proportions of the bows, but keep the line soft. Avoid exaggerated curves or points, but never flatten out the line of the bows entirely. Carry the lipstick from the bows to the corners of the mouth in a line that curves out gently from the natural line. This gives a more appealing shape to all mouths. Be sure that the outward curving line is very light—too much gives the lips a sulky, sneering expression.

Methods of Applying

For a clean, even line, with no fuzzy, frayed edges, use a brush or pencil to outline the mouth. A lipstick pencil, which looks like an ordinary lead pencil, has a firm, non-greasy red coloring with which the mouth can be drawn on. It can be used in one of two ways. Draw the outline first with the pencil, then fill in the shape with your lipstick; or apply lipstick first, to fill in the main area of the mouth, and use the pencil to even the edges. In either procedure the pencil should be moistened with lipstick to work most effectively.

There are three schools of thought as to when the lipstick should be applied so that the lips have a soft, natural look. Elizabeth Arden advises that the lipstick be applied before powder. Apply the lipstick to absolutely dry lips, then blot off excess color. Helena Rubinstein likes the nice sheen the lips have when lipstick is applied after powder. It is especially important, if you plan to go over the true lip line to make the lips fuller, that the lipstick be applied last so that it won't spread fanwise into little ridges around the mouth. Eddie Sens, of Hollywood, suggests this method to make lipstick last longest: Apply it, then blot practically all of it off by pressing a tissue against the lips while they are in repose. Powder the face and lips, remove the powder from the lips. Apply lipstick again and allow it to remain on the lips for a few minutes, then blot off the excess.

Lighter Shades

It is reported that men are rejoicing over the new lighter shades of lipstick, pale coral and intense pink which form the latest beauty vogue launched by cosmetic manufacturers. After years of wearing lipstick of medium and dark shades of vermilion and purple-red, it is generally agreed that women must readjust their ideas on make-up before the trend toward lighter colors becomes general.

Since the use of cosmetics is intended primarily to enhance a woman rather than to make her fashionable, there are usually only a few general slow-moving trends in the cosmetic field.

Because these are seldom news in the fashion sense, introduction of new light lipstick shades is a real departure. The new vogue for more natural make-up is expected to give impetus to this tendency away from the medium shades of red and the almost black lipsticks the teen-age girls have found so sophisticated.

Beauty experts suggest that the new pale coral lipstick be worn with a tanned skin, or a foundation with color that gives the skin a tanned effect; the intense light pink lipstick with a pink or pink-rachel powder for those whose complexions remain city-fair.

The lipstick must be drawn on carefully so that the lips are perfectly formed. Other makeup, also must be flawless to avoid the danger of the lips having a too pale look that might seem to be accident rather than design.

Powder foundation and powder should be applied smoothly so that the complexion has a finished all-over even color. Little or no rouge is necessary. More eye make-up is often needed—mascara, eye shadow and pencil for the eyebrows if they are light—to accent the eyes and make them the focal point of the face. This, in combination with pale, brilliant lips, is calculated to give a younger, softer and more feminine look.

Major and Minor Notes

By John Oliver

MANY Edmonton musicians and music lovers will join in the widespread regret expressed at the death last week of Sir Henry Joseph Wood, one of Britain's most eminent musicians and conductors. He was 75 years old. He died of jaundice in Hitchin hospital, Hertfordshire, after a month's illness. During the Great War of 1914-1918 thousands of Canadian service men went to Queen's Hall to see Sir Henry's short, stocky figure, and his dynamic conducting and to hear his famous Promenade concerts. Many others, during visits to London in war and peace, partook of similar experiences. Among the soldier and civilian visitors to the famous hall in Upper Regent Street were many Edmontonians. To many music lovers all over the world Sir Henry was a legendary figure, a musical knight championing the cause of good music, bringing music to the masses, and always standing as a symbol for the best.

He conducted concerts in England for 50 years and gave initial presentations of more than 900 British and foreign compositions —a prodigious achievement in itself quite apart from the tremendous amount of work required to become familiar with the standard orchestral repertoire. The Promenades bringing music to mass audiences in the manner of present day "popular" concerts, were inaugurated by Sir Henry at Queen's Hall, London, in August, 1895, and were held there annually until the destruction of that hall during the 1940 air blitz. They were resumed the next season in Royal Albert Hall, and the golden jubilee series opened there last June. Sir Henry was taken ill for the last time just before the actual jubilee concert scheduled for Aug. 11. Incidentally the series never was completed, because robot bombs made the hall unsafe for mass gatherings.

The concerts through the years drew audiences from every stratum of English society, but they received their name and their fame from the assortment of clerks, factory workers, students and others, who, unable to afford the reserved balcony seats, stood or strolled on the popular-priced promenade on the floor of the hall.

To Sir Henry, who once described his work as "democratizing the message of music," this was the most inspiring type of audience. His programs, while consisting mostly of tried and classical works, always included a few novelties, and his own colorful personality attracted thousands who might otherwise have had no interest in music. He was known among orchestral players as "the drill sergeant" for his physical vigor and his insistence on perfection during rehearsals. At Liverpool in 1922 he conducted more than 50 full rehearsals of a Bach mass before he was satisfied enough to allow it to be given in public nearly a year later.

Another time he kept a class at the Royal Academy of Music a full term on one overture, interchanging every part among the string and wood wind players. In 1930 he shocked orthodox London musicians by appearing with his orchestra for three weeks at the Coliseum, a London three-a-day music hall, or vaudeville theatre, at a salary of $7,500 a week. For from thinking such a performance undignified he welcomed the opportunity to bring good music to a public unfamiliar with the concert world.

Among the many compositions introduced to the British public by him was Tchaikovsky's universally-popular Nutcracker Suite, which he conducted for the first time before his patrons in 1898. He was the first to introduce to the British the works of Stravinsky, Debussy and Ravel, and was one of the first conductors to welcome women players into his orchestra. Many musicians who later went on to fame as conductors and composers gained essential experience under his baton. John Barbirolli, former conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra and now conductor of the rejuvenated Halle Orchestra of Manchester, once was Sir Henry's first-chair cellist.

The recipient of honors throughout Great Britain and in the United States, Sir Henry was one of the most highly thought of musicians and conductors among the men who were best able to judge and upon whom the success or failure of a conductor largely depends, namely, the players in the orchestra. When you are dealing with an orchestra like the New York Philharmonic or any of the great symphony orchestras, where every member is a skilled musician and a soloist in his own right, one must "know his business" to earn and hold their respect and obtain the best results from them.

Among such players Sir Henry was a conductor who thoroughly "knew his business." Bernard Shore, solo violist of the BBC Symphony, who has played under all the world's leading conductors, wrote of Sir Henry, in part, "His record is impressive, and is indeed not to be paralleled. To think of the cavalcade of composers and of executive artists who have passed before him in those 50 years of concerts, is to feel almost dizzy, and many from both ranks owe their success to his early recognition. He has at the same time trained the majority of orchestral players himself. . . . He may in truth be called the father of our orchestras. Sir Henry Wood is one of the great men of England's long musical history."

Zonia, Lazarowich, young Edmonton violinist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Lazarowich, 11336 101 street, is spending the summer continuing her studies at the Waterhouse music studios at Winnipeg, under the direction of John and Cecelia Waterhouse. Writing to Mr. Lazarowich, regarding the young woman, Mr. Waterhouse stated that "I am quite pleased with her work; she is undoubtedly talented, and her future possibilities are promising." . . . She has made considerable progress with the Max Bruch (concerto for violin) and should give a highly creditable performance of it by October. In addition she is working on the Beethoven violin and piano Sonata No. 5 in F and a delightful composition by Rowsley Woof which has taken her fancy, and of course, the necessary technical work. She is intelligent above the average, and grasps quickly what I wish to convey to her."

Mr. Waterhouse pointed out that he expects to have Miss Lazarowich do some ensemble work with other of his students and the Vivaldi Concerto for three violins and the Dvorak Terzetto for two violins and viola are among the works scheduled for study. "She cannot have too much experience in that branch of music, Mr. Waterhouse wrote. Mr. Lazarowich stated that if present plans are carried to fruition, his daughter might make her recital debut here in October.

Kay Gould who has been substituting at the organ of First Baptist church for the last two months during the absence of Mrs. F. Barber Smith, has won warm commendation for his work, not only for excellence on its own account, but in maintaining the high standards established by Mrs. Smith. Miss Gould, who is one of the best-known of this city's piano teachers is an organ pupil of Mrs. Smith and at the Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations here in June she passed her Grade 6 organ, taking the highest marks in her grade of any student in Alberta, and thereby won a silver medal. Mrs. Smith will return to the organ for one service on Sunday and as from Sept. 1 will resume full time duty.

Army's Entertainers Prove Real Troupers

By MARGARET ECKER

FRANCE, Aug. 26.—(CP)—There's lots of kinds of heroes in this war so there should be room on the list for the ordinary Joe whose unheroic job is making other people laugh up here behind the Canadian lines where the guns thunder night and day but the things that creep and crawl and bite are more nuisance.

Being a funny man or singing a cowboy song to a tune played on a banjo doesn't sound very brave —but it is the way the boys and girls in the Maple Leaf shows do it.

There was a Maple show at this hospital the first night I was in France when I still listened to the guns in the distance and thought the itching on my arms and legs was hives.

The Haversacks, as Maple Leaf Show No. 5 is called, put a lot of life into their show. Cowboy music was their chief offering and that seemed to be all right by their audience, boys in hospital blue, or pyjamas and dressing gowns who limped or were carried over from the hospital tents.

GIVEN "BIG HAND"

Most of them did a bit of humming or whistling themselves, when the band pounded out "Home on the Range" or "The West, A Nest and You." Stewart James, the dead pan magician from Courtright, Ont., got a big hand, and Ernie Holden and Pl. Morris Taylor of Winnipeg, a couple of slap happy comedians had them rolling on the grass.

When it was all over and everybody sang "O Canada" while a flight of Spits flew west into a red sunset, it seemed like a pretty satisfactory show.

Around the trucks, behind the stage that was made of table tops and wriggled under the performers, C.S.M. Jack Cooper of Vancouver, who said everyone called him Spud, told me the story of the boys who went on clowning when they felt like going outside and being downright sick.

This was their first show back of the front line and none of them had had any sleep for over two days. Up there they'd got the common complaint of all people who drink water in Normandy and now they were pretty sick boys.

SHOULD BE IN BED

"They should be in bed, almost everyone of them," said Spud. "They come off the stage and double up with cramps."

Tommy Anton of Fox Valley, Sask., is the show's pianist and doubles on the musical saw. Red Elgstrand of Edmonton is the accordionist, Vic. Turland of Winnipeg, Man., is trumpeter and guitar player; Harold Jackson beats it out on the drums and coal black Al King of Montreal has the Harlem touch of the base fiddle.

The cowboy vocalist, Ronnie Walker of Montreal, is a hit with westerners.

After we'd talked to the boys they were pretty well packed up, ready to pull out on the road again.

"We don't get much sleep on this job—and sometimes we miss our rations and we don't get much to eat, but it's fun," said Driver Cecil Cress of Manitoulin, Ont. John Donovan, Bluffton, Alta., and Tom Dineen of Saskatoon are the other drivers.

Two Canadians Given Awards For Heroism

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(CP)—The gallantry of a Canadian sergeant who despite sub-freezing temperatures defended his position for 36 hours, repulsed seven counter-attacks and provdied the "hub of the entire defence of his sector" was related last night with release of citations covering awards of two United States decorations to Canadian soldiers for gallantry in Italy.

The citations were made public by defence headquarters. Both awards were announced last month.

Sgt. E. S. Fines, 22, of Lloydminster, Sask., and South Wellington, B.C., was posthumously awarded the United States Distinguished Service Cross for "extraordinary heroism" in action Jan. 7 and 8 near Ceppagna.

SENT FORWARD

He was sent forward with a small group to augment the defence of a critical hill crest which had been won from the enemy and found it defended by one machine-gun and two riflemen, who were under fire from three enemy machine-guns, mortars and small arms.

"Sgt. Fines edged his way to a nearby enemy machine-gun pit, removed the body of the dead gunner and set up his gun," said the citation.

"Ignoring sniper fire, he quickly silenced the enemy machine-gun on his right flank. His fire, co-ordinated with that of the other defenders, silenced the enemy weapon to the front.

"Confined to a cramped and exposed position, in sub-freezing temperature, he maintained a vigilant defence of his position through the succeeding 36 hours. When his own ammunition was expended, he emplaced a discarded enemy machine-gun and continued to fire.

GOT AMMUNITION

"On one occasion he crawled to a position on his front and obtained more of the enemy's ammunition to use in his weapon.

He repulsed seven counter-attacks on his own position and in addition denied the enemy an important approach to Mount Majo. When he was finally relieved the bodies of 11 Germans lay in front of his position. Sgt. Fines provided the hub of the entire defence of the sector."

Sgt. H. E. Webb, 33, of Bremner, Alta., was awarded the Bronze Star for making his way through heavy enemy crossfire near Borgo Piave, Feb. 17 to assist a wounded comrade, and for improvising a litter and assisting in carrying him to safety.

Teacher Dies

M. J. Hilton, 8321 112 street, who died in a city hospital Friday afternoon after an illness of only a few days.

Widely-Known Educationist Dies: 62 Years

Matthew John Hilton, 8321 112 street, for many years a teacher at, and for more than a decade principal of Technical High school, and for the last two years director of the educational branch of Aircraft Repair Ltd., died in a city hospital Friday afternoon. He was 62 years old. One of the most highly respected and widely-known educationists in this city, he had shaped the careers of thousands of Edmontonians who went forward to serve in technical branches of the armed forces in the war.

Mr. Hilton was taken unexpectedly ill last Sunday and was rushed to hospital. His general condition steadily deteriorated and early Friday afternoon he lapsed into a coma, and death soon took place.

He was born on May 13, 1882, at Leigh, Lancashire, Eng., son of Henry Hilton and Anne Hindley Boydell. He was educated at Grammar school at Leigh; Witwatersrand School of Mining and Metallurgy; Transvaal Technical Institute and the Municipal School of Technology, Manchester, Eng.

Mr. Hilton was married on Aug. 27, 1908, to Mary Harvey Watters, daughter of Henry Watters, and Mary William Harvey, at Johannesburg, South Africa. They have one daughter, Edith Mary. He started a business career at Johannesburg with Langaagte Deep Gold Mining Company Ltd.

CHIEF ASSAYER

Later he was with Robinson Randfontein G.M. Company, Ltd., Johannesburg, as chief assayer until change of management, when he returned to Langlaate Deep Ltd. as assayer and surveyor. He left South Africa for this city on Aug. 27, 1908, and practiced as a mining engineer here until 1913.

Mr. Hilton was with the city assessor's office until March of 1917, when he was sent to Ottawa on special war service with the Royal Canadian Mint as assayer and metallurgist. He was appointed science master at the Edmonton Technical High school in September of 1917, and was appointed principal in September of 1931.

He always has taken an active interest in Boy Scouts' affairs and in the model aircraft league. He is the author of a geography book which was officially adopted for use in Alberta schools.

Mr. Hilton was a member of the Anglican church. His recreations were golf and motoring. He belonged to the Educational Society of Alberta, Association of Professional Engineers of Alberta, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, and Royal Astronomical of Canada.

He was the holder of the King's Coronation Medal and the Boy Scout Association Medal of Merit for long and meritorious service.

On the day he was stricken with his last illness he observed his 36th wedding anniversary.

FAMILY SURVIVES

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Miss Edith Mary Hilton and one sister, Mrs. W. L. Tiffin of Johannesburg, South Africa.

A funeral service will be held at Howard & McBride's chapel at 2 p.m. Monday.

Pallbearers will be G. H. Clark, K. F. Kirkwood, W. F. Robinson, G. I. Ross and J. F. Sinclair, all of whom were associated for many years with Mr. Hilton in the teaching profession, and John Bowen, plant superintendent of Aircraft Repair Ltd.

The Rev. Canon A. M. Trendell of All Saints Cathedral will be in charge of the service. Burial will be in Edmonton cemetery.

Crowds in Rome Almost Riot When Red Flag Downed

ROME, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A demonstration in celebration of the liberation of Paris before the French embassy on the Piazza Farnese yesterday became a near riot when a demonstrator stripped an Italian monarchy flag from its staff at a nearby police station and ran up the red flag with the hammer and sickle.

A policeman ripped down the red flag and threw it at the crowd below. There was a rush for the building, but two Allied policemen kept the people back and ordered an Italian flag without the Savoy Cross and the red flag to be flown side by side.

This calmed the crowd, which returned to singing La Marseillaise.

Willkie "Prefers" To See Roosevelt Following Election

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie, saying that President Roosevelt has invited him to a conference, took the attitude yesterday that he would prefer to wait until after the election.

Nothing definite has been done toward arranging a meeting.

Mr. Willkie, in New York, confirmed reports of the presidential invitation after Mr. Roosevelt, at his news conference here, said he had been in communication with Mr. Willkie.

The disclosure followed several days of rumors that the White House was making overtures to the 1940 Republican presidential nominee for a conference on foreign policy.

McCoy Health Service

Constipation is a very common symptom which in about eighty per cent of the cases is due chiefly to faulty habits of living. It is capable of being corrected when these habits are changed. However, at the start, when the patient is attempting to encourage the formation of better habits, there is usually a period when special effort must be put forth to re-train the colon into eliminating regularly.

During this period, there are several measures available which may bring excellent results, both in the way of returning the colon to normal size and shape and in the way of helping it to discharge waste material regularly.

In general there are two forms of constipation: the atonic and the spastic. Some physicians do not approve of these classifications, however, they are often used because they are convenient. In the atonic form, the X-ray will show the colon to be flabby and relaxed. Certain parts of it may enlarge to form balloons or pouches, which change the normal shape. In this form the colon might be called "lazy" or "sluggish" and it is this laziness which produces the symptom of delay in regard to movement.

In a case of this kind, the patient may be helped by certain types of office treatment. For example, the Sine wave over the abdomen may be of great value in exercising the flabby abdominal muscles, restoring them to a better tone and giving the patient an exercise which he could not voluntarily give himself. Such treatment is often of value in stimulating the colon toward normal activity.

Manipulative treatment over the abdomen is often of value also, when given by a physician who is skilled in this kind of work.

The patient with atonic constipation will generally be found to have relaxed abdominal muscles and he may benefit from special instructions regarding some exercises which may be used in bringing about the desirable effect of strengthening the important abdominal muscles. The diet to be used is likewise important, and a good basic diet in these cases is one which provides plenty of bulk in the way of cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. At the start the patient may receive considerable benefit from using nothing but whole, raw fruits for several days. This type of whole fruit fast is of course most easily taken during the summer. During any one given day, only one kind of fruit should be taken, but on the following day a different kind may be used when the patient wishes a change. Such fruits as cherries, peaches, apricots, pears, grapes, and so on may be used.

Usually when on the whole fruit fast the patient will not need to take any enemas, but if the bowels do not move, then one enema daily is to be used.

After the fast, the patient should take the cooked non-starchy vegetables in abundance, using them with the breakfast meal and also with the other meals. In case the vegetables do not supply enough bulk or roughage, it may be advisable for a time to give the patient some kind of bulk increases. Psyllium seed, and other products are frequently recommended. There are several substances which may be used, and considerable judgment is needed in selecting the one which will do the most good, as the substance which is satisfactory in one case may fail in the next. By the physician studying the case thoroughly, the right one is usually found.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By CHAPLAIN HAROLD L. PROPPE

"When You Pray"

CLEARLY the Bible teaches that God hears and answers prayer. Through Jesus Christ, our Saviour, every person can go into God's presence and pray, "Our Father, who art in heaven" with the confident assurance that God will hear and help.

Prayer is more than "the mighty utterance of a mighty need and its answer the dipping of angels' fingers into pots of gold." Prayer is communion and comradeship, confession and intercession. It is the recognition of filial relationship, the confession of human dependence, the acknowledgment of Divine omnipotence, and the adoration of the Divine nature.

"Every man can build a chapel in his own breast: himself the priest, his heart the sacrifice, the earth he treads on the altar." The man who gets along without prayer gets along without God. It is no more possible to live physically without breathing than it is to live spiritually without praying. "Prayer is the Christian's vital breath, the Christian's native air." Prayer is soul-respiration. Of more value is it even than Bible study, for as a man can live longer without food than he can without air, so he can live longer without the Bible than he can without prayer. Men have lived forty days without food, but no man can live forty minutes without air. Praying is breathing; to neglect it is to die spiritually.

Praying without Christ as our Saviour is beggary, or soliloquy, or monotony, or mockery, or effrontery. Praying with Christ as our Saviour is in spirit spontaneous, in vocabulary appropriate, in attitude self-revealing.

In prayer we talk over our problem with God Himself until the perfect harmony between God and our heart is re-established.

Dr. Alexis Carrel says, "When we pray, we link ourselves with the inexhaustible motive power that suspends the universe. We ask that a part of this power be apportioned to our needs." Jesus said, "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, you can ask what you will and it shall be done unto you."

"Power Through Trusting God," and "The Prophet Micah," are the subjects with which the Rev. Canon A. M. Trendell will deal in his sermons at All Saints' Cathedral on Sunday.

"Jesus the Great Restorer," is the subject of the sermon to be delivered to joint congregations of Robertson and Wesley United churches at the eservice in Robertson church Sunday morning.

Officers and men of HMCS Nonsuch will attend the morning service in Christ Church Anglican Sunday morning. In the evening the Rev. E. S. Ottley, BA, L.Th., will give a sermon dealing with the subject "Life's Vineyard".

Miss Dorothy Humphries will be soloist at the service in Central United church Sunday at 11 a.m. The Rev. J. T. Stephens will conduct divine worship.

In Charge

The Rev. W. M. Nainby, BA, LTh, who will be in charge of regular services Sunday in Holy Trinity church.

Delton Baptist Church Minister Leaving for New Ontario Duties

On Thursday evening in Delton Baptist Church, the congregation assembled to honor the Rev. R. C. Standerwick and Mrs. Standerwick and family, before they leave on Monday for Grimsby, Ont., where Mr. Standerwick has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church. He will also attend McMaster University to complete a course in theology.

Mr. Standerwick has been the pastor at Delton for three years, previously having been the pastor in Camrose and High River. While in Edmonton he also attended the University of Alberta, in courses in arts and theology. For two years he has acted as secretary-treasurer for the Edmonton-Peace River Association of Baptist churches.

The evening's program consisted of musical numbers by the orchestra, and various choir members, and a violin solo by Allan Bell, and congregational singing led by the Rev. A. Johnson, of Bonnie Doon church, who also contributed a solo. F. G. McCoy was chairman, and paid tribute to the faithful work done by Mr and Mrs. Standerwick in the church and community, to their ability and untiring service.

The Rev. Daniel Young of First Baptist church, brought greetings and spoke highly of Mr. Standerwick's work in all he had undertaken, especially of the record in his college work, and mentioned the opportunities which would be his as he attends McMaster University.

The Rev. S. P. Trites, of McDonald Baptist spoke briefly of the happy fellowship and friendship he had enjoyed with Mr. Standerwick since coming to Edmonton, and the Rev. J. A. McRae mentioned having been associated with him through his previous pastorates in the province, and the qualities which had endeared both him and Mrs. Standerwick to the people wherever they had gone.

A. Morgan, of the deacon's board of the church then made a presentation on behalf of the congregation, and joined with the other speakers in wishing "God's richest blessing" to them in their new field of service.

The members of the Junior Mission Circle served refreshments during the social hour that followed.

Tomorrow will be the closing day of Mr. Standerwick's ministry in Edmonton.

MY DAY

HYDE PARK.—One of the objections raised by people who are afraid of universal military training is that this is a pattern which was followed by the Fascists in Germany and Italy, and by the Communists in Russia. Such people are afraid of having girls included for any kind of training, or of going a step beyond military training and giving training which might stimulate interest in government and participation in it, because that would increase the parallel.

When one says that the aid given to Russian youth in obtaining higher education is perhaps greater than anything we have worked out here, and that we might examine what they have done in relation to any future plans of ours, there is at once the shriek from certain quarters that we wish to communize our youth. As a matter of fact, it is highly unwise not to examine what was done in other countries. There is no need to copy it, but we might improve on it and adapt it to our own purposes.

I cannot imagine that anyone in this country would want to see our young people subjected to the kind of regimentation and instruction which was enforced in Germany and Italy, nor do I think that we would want to see our young people indoctrinated in the way that the Russians indoctrinated their young people. But why we should not take anything we find that is good, and use it in a way which will benefit our youth, is incomprehensible to me. It shows a kind of fear and uncertainty about ourselves which is to me entirely unfathomable. I have faith in our people and in our youth, and I do not believe you could put over on us something which did not meet with agreement from the majority of the people in this country.

I think we have learned from the draft that we need a better knowledge of nutrition, and better medical care for our children. To attain this, we must of necessity make some changes in our educational system, because we cannot expect any improvement except through the knowledge and understanding of our young people.

The year of extra training beyond high school might add enormously to the kind of education that would help us to achieve these improvements in our standards of living. Such improvement does not necessarily mean that we need more money per family, it often means we need more knowledge per family in order to use what we have at hand.

It is a long time since I have worked closely with any organization, or been actively connected with the work that any particular group is doing. I think, however, that these things which I have been writing about during the past few days should be of interest and become matters of discussion not only in women's groups, but in men's groups and in groups of young people, because they are going to affect the life of our nation and that of many other nations in the future.

Confessed Slayer May Be Witness

MONTREAL, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Police said yesterday a self-confessed member of "Murder Incorporated" may be brought to Montreal soon as a witness in connection with the reopened investigation into the 10-year-old gangland slaying of Charles Feigenbaum here.

Claiming that they had established the identity of the man who fired six shots into Feigenbaum, turned states' evidence on fellow members of the Brooklyn syndicate in their mass murder "for hire" convictions last year.

Expect Nazi Army To Last Two Months

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26—(AP)—Many Germans now give the German army only two more months in the struggle with Allied troops, but believe Nazi last-ditch fighters will drag Germany through chaos for months after that, the newspaper Morgontidningen said yesterday. It quoted two Swedes newly returned from Berlin.

Nazis Surrender

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Six hundred Germans stationed in the Chamber of Deputies in Paris have surrendered to French forces of the interior, the Paris radio said yesterday in a broadcast recorded by CBS.

In Pinchers Threat

Nazis Likely to Retreat To Italo-Austria Border

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP)—A general withdrawal of German forces in Italy to the Austrian Alps is a likely development as a result of the giant pincers movement now threatening to envelop the harrassed Germans fighting their way back to the Gothic line. The German forces are estimated at 25 mauled divisions.

In Southern France, American and French divisions have closed for all practical purposes the escape door through the maritime Alps. The Germans instead are reported to be moving into Northern Italy from France and Gen. Alexander has called upon Italian patriots to block this movement.

Romania's desertion from the German cause and the anticipated withdrawal of Bulgaria from the war provide a setting for the right arm of a claw which can squeeze Kesselring's troops unless he hastens back to the Italo-Austrian frontier and the mountain passes leading into Central Europe.

POSITION PRECARIOUS

Capitulation of Bulgaria would virtually end German's rule in the Balkans. The Bulgarians, it is estimated, provided 80 per cent. of the occupation forces in Serbia and Greece. Once they are gone Gen. Tito's Partisans, aided by Greek guerrillas, should take care of the remaining Germans.

With Yugoslavia liberated the claw would be ready to swing into Field Marshal Kesselring's back.

Polish forces of the British 8th Army are nearing the eastern end of the Gothic line which reaches the Adriatic coast between Rimini and Pesaro. This eastern anchor is the Achilles' heel of the line and a powerful thrust there might well break through into the Lombardy plain and roll the Germans away from the Austrian escape route to certain annihilation.

SPORTS BULLETIN

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

WITH the opening of the semi-final series between Dodgers and U.S. Signals listed for Renfrew Park this evening and the doubleheader between Yanks and Fort Lewis, Wash., soldiers billed for Sunday afternoon, local fans have another good baseball week-end ahead.

This year's playoffs—both semi-final and final—should provide good ball, for all three clubs. Yanks, Dodgers and Signals are well spiked with high class talent. Signallers were the best fielding team throughout the regular league season, Dodgers had the heaviest batting club, while Yanks are generally rated as playing the best ball in recent weeks. So take your choice.

Additional interest attaches to the Sunday attractions due to the fact the visiting soldier nine from Washington includes John Gullekson, Harley Miller, Tony Lollo, Skip Phillips and Walter Misosky, popular members of last year's Edmonton Yanks. Tonight's game will start at 6:30 and the first half of tomorrow's twin bill at 1:30 p.m.

MORE HOMERS THIS YEAR

LOOKS as if the boys put the wood on with more zip (or did a lively ball help?) during the regular league season just ended than in '43. Eleven home runs were marked up as compared to a pair —George Green and Fred Lupul —in the previous year.

Arrows led the league in double plays with a total of 14, while Yanks and Dodgers both had 13 twin killings and U.S. Signals eight. John Galvin of Yanks, Ralph Morgan and Mel Ottem of Dodgers, Bob Sawyer of Signals and Ed Gauf of Arrows all put across unassisted efforts.

Bob Sawyer of Signals topped the list of pitchers having five wins without a defeat. Wilbur Ray, Yanks had four straight victories. Tommy Brant was the only six-game winner, but was tagged with four losses as well. Al Walker, Yanks won four and lost one and Walter Johnson, Dodgers also had a quartet of successes, but was charged with two reverses, the same as Forrest Hunter of Yanks. Morris Hawkey won four and was beaten five times.

Harry Baldwin won three and lost the same number and Ralph Morgan, also of Dodgers won two and dropped one. Johnny Gray, Yanks won two and lost four, Walter Nelson had one win and Wayne Adams won and lost in two starts.

Helmuth Brown of Signals won three and lost six and Lloyd Riley won one and was beaten five times. Walter Stopera won and lost in a pair of efforts. Hal Stafford of Arrows won two and lost three, while Elmer Thomas had a single win and three losses and Bill Gauf one win and two defeats.

SUGGESTS PEPPER-UPPER

ARGUING that baseball "hasn't changed since fouls first were ruled as strikes," Dr. Clarence Rungee, of New Haven, proposes six-inning games with four outs in each inning.

His idea is that players would "sprint all the way, just as runners have stepped up the pace for the mile, instead of coasting through three-quarters and then cutting loose.

Also, "there would be three times less for the players to go to the field and return and three times less for the pitchers to warm up between innings."

Will Aid Minor Clubs

Blue Bombers Rugby Team Will Not Operate in '44

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26—(CP)—A. U. Chipman, vice-president of the Winnipeg Rugby Club, announced Friday the club, sponsor of the famed Blue Bombers from 1931 to 1941, would not be actively connected with senior football this season.

He said, however, the club would not forfeit its identity altogether, but that it would continue to foster the game in minor ranks.

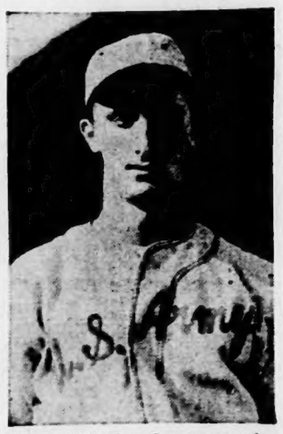

Possibility of organizing an inter-services league in Winnipeg with RCAF and army teams involved are still bright, officials said.

Mr. Chipman said the club's decision to withdraw from competition was brought about by recent service rulings preventing service personnel from participating with civilians in organized sport. The club had hoped to sponsor a team or teams including both servicemen and civilians.

"Without the co-operation of the armed services we find it impossible to continue."

He said the club was interested in promoting an east-west schoolboy final this fall and several suggestions had already been offered in that direction.

With Visitors

Walter Misosky, three-game winner with Yanks during the league season a year ago, is with the Fort Lewis, Wash., team which plays a doubleheader against Yanks at Renfrew Park tomorrow. Misosky also played several games in the outfield.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Apparently it's going to be the west for many eastern hockey players this winter. Jimmy Ward is westward ho-ing to get things going at Portland, Ore., where he expects to have two teams —and he reports he has lined up several Montreal players for the season's chores. The rest he hopes to pick up in the west.

Syd Thomas

If that international west coast loop gets rolling some of the athletes eastward may emigrate that way—the draft board and selective service always considered, of course.

BITER BITTEN, WHAT?

Mike Rodden of the Kingston Whig-Standard wonders how Hamilton Wildcat players will react to Abe Zvonkin as assistant coach. Mike recalls that Abe always was quite a problem child for his coaches and executive officers of the club, and wasn't exactly overly-popular with the other players. The Wildcats now may give Abe a tough ride, Mike figures, because he used to be a bad boy himself.

IDLE CHATTER

Eying with Canadian respect reports of the eight bars set up at George May's big Tam O'Shanter golf course, at Chicago, Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson opined enviously the establishment should be called a bar-plant, rather than a par-plant. . . . Rise of Toronto Maple Leafs to breath-taking stardom in International League circles prompted Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle to attempt an analysis of the underlying reasons. But, says he, it's "as inexplicable as a service sports release from the gang at Ottawa."

Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning reports the Blue Bomber organization may withdraw completely from senior football this year, now that service athletes can't be used. That would leave the torch-bearing for the high school teams. . . . Baseball fans around Windsor, Ont., are more pepped up over Detroit Tigers' American League chances than at any time since the Bengals nabbed the flag.

Nonsuch Swimmers Lower 50-Yard Breast Stroke Mark to 32 1-5 Seconds

Hembling Sets Another Alberta Record

Sailors Take Top Honors Service Gala

Bruce Hembling apparently wasn't satisfied with breaking the provincial 50 yards free style record on Wednesday, so he came back Friday night and knocked two-fifths of a second off the Alberta 50 yards breast stroke mark at the inter-service swim meet at South Side Pool.

The gala, sponsored by HMCS Nonsuch, was won by the Navy team with a total of 40 points, giving the sailors a firm hold on the Hudson's Bay Cup presented by Harry Johnson for the season's best record among the services. No. 4 ITS was second last night with 17 points and NWSC third with 10.

In shattering the previous breast stroke mark, Hembling defeated Flt.-Lt. Bailey of NWSC to post the new time of 32 1-5 seconds. The old clocking was 32 3-5 seconds.

Navy coasted to victories in both relay events. The team of Bruce Hembling, Allan Carmichael, Jack Cook and Surgeon-Lt. C. McCallum easily won the free style relay in one minute, 14 seconds and Hembling, Cook and Carmichael found the opposition fairly easy in the medley relay. ITS was second in the medley event and NWSC third while the latter team was second in the open relay and ITS third.

There were only two entrants in the diving, but Larry Superstein had to do well on the board to outclass Potter from NWSC.

In addition to winning the breast stroke event, Hembling pushed aside the water in the 50 yards free style to take that event. Allan Carmichael equalled Hembling's feat of winning two competitions when he defeated Lance Ford in both the 100 and 200 yards free style events. The pair registered Navys four firsts between them, besides helping in the two relays.

The 70 yards back stroke went to LAC Vanholt of ITS, who combined with Superstein in capturing two firsts for their team.

Following are the results:

50 yards breast stroke—1, Hembling, Navy; 2, Bailey, NWSC. Time, 32 1-5 secs.

200 yards free style—1, Cook, Navy; 2, Ford, Navy. Time, 2:41 3-5.

70 yards back stroke—1, Vanholt, No. 4 ITS; 2, Carmichael, Navy. Time, 50 seconds.

50 yards free style—1, Hembling, Navy; 2, Kline, ITS; 3, Cook, Navy. Time, 26 1-5 seconds.

100 yards free style—1, Carmichael, Navy; 2, Ford, Navy. Time 1 minute, 17 4-5 seconds.

Relay—1, Navy; 2, NWSC; 3, ITS.

Medley Relay—1, Navy; 2 ITS; 3, NWSC.

Diving—1, Superstein, ITS; 2, Potter, NWSC.

American Derby To Be Run Today At Washington

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—The tradition-steeped $80,950 American Derby, which will have its 35th renewal at Washington Park today, shapes up as strictly a duel between Pensive, Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner, and By Jimminy, currently the three-year-old stake champion of the east.

Pensive's Calmuet Farm stablemate, Miss Keenland, will race with him and the field, one of the smallest in its history, will be completed by Old Kentuck, Nelson Dunstan and Challenge Me. With six starters, the race will be worth $62,400 to the owner of the winning thoroughbred.

By Jimminy, owned by Alfred Parker of New York city, has come west with the prestige of victories in the Shevlin, Dwyer and Travers stakes.

By Jimminy will be ridden by Georgie Woolf, who won last year's American Derby with Askmenow and that of the preceding year with Alsab.

Pensive will be top weighted with 126 pounds, with By Jimminy carrying 122. Pensive will be ridden by his regular jockey, Conn McCrearywn who piloted the colt to victory in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

Pensive's wobbly legs have been strengthened somewhat by Trainer Ben Jones' careful handling and the colt may achieve a comeback after six consecutive defeats.

ATTEMPT MASS ESCAPE

Horse shoes, the lunch period recreation activity for many of the employees of Aircraft Repair Limited, has been played for the past eight weeks as a singles tournament by 36 of the more ardent barnyard golf artists of the big aircraft overhaul plant. Peter Innes (right), 10343 81 street, of the A.R.L. cleaning department came out champion with a 50-49 count over Bill Rogers (left), assembly floor worker, in the final game played at the plant pitches on Friday. Innes and Rogers earlier this week eliminated Tommy Skistod, another assembly floor worker, in the playdown "round-robin" series. Both Innes and Rogers were in the play-offs in last year's tournament which was won by Freddie Zurch, dope shop worker. Zurch got dropped in the semi-final rounds this year. A doubles tournament is planned for mid-September. Rogers is manager of the horse shoe activity at A.R.L., which forms part of the program of the plant's sport association.

Byron Nelson Moves Ahead In Tam O'Shanter Tourney

By FRITZ HOWELL

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—The $42,500 all-American golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter took on that old, familiar appearance Friday as Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, moved out front by two strokes at the half-way mark, with Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia and Sgt. Vic Ghezzi of Camp Grant, Ill., close behind.

Nelson tacked at 35-35—70 yesterday to his opening 68 for a 138 total, six under par, while both McSpaden and Ghezzi came up with cards of 34-35—69 after scoring 71's Thursday. That gave them totals of 140, four under par, and two off the pace.

Tied for third place with 141, as a result of a blazing 34-32—66 Friday, was Henry Picard of Harrisburg, Pa., he was knotted with Felix Serafin, Pittston, Pa., who had 36-34—70 yesterday.

The day's No. 1 feature was not the fine shooting of the leaders, however, but the reversal of form displayed by Johnny Bulla, who paced the pack Thursday with a course-record tying 65, soared to a 79 Friday, 14 strokes off Thursday's performance—probably the most resounding blow-up major league golf has witnessed.

SARAGEN AT 143

Only a stroke behind Picard and Serafin at 142, was George M. Smith of Lake Forest, Ill., dark-horse local pro, while six others, including veteran Gene Sarazen, two-time United States open king, were bracketed at 143, a stroke under regulations figures.

Bulla's explosion dropped him into an eight-way tie at 144, even pars, with such stars as Sam Parks, 1935 national open winner; Al Watrous, the Birmingham, Mich., veteran, and Sam Byrd, the old Yankee outfielder.

Thus, with 20 players even with par or better at the half way mark, a stirring stretch drive was in prospect before the victor picks up $13,462 Sunday. Another score of players are only a stroke or two away.

In the amateur and women's divisions of the three-ring circus, the respective leads at the half way mark were held by Ken R. Heilmann, St. Louis, Mo., chemist, with 70-72—142, and Betty Hicks, duration national champion from Long Beach, Calif., a professional, who shot her second straight 78 yesterday, two over par, for a 156 total.

Ed Furgol, Detroit, public links player, was a stroke behind Heilmann, while Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia was four strokes behind Miss Hicks with 160.

Following are the scores of the Canadian entrants in the tournament, showing Thursday's 18-hole round, yesterday's score, and the 36-hole total:

Dick Borthwick, Oakdale, Toronto 75-80—155; Robert Gray, Scarboro, Toronto, 76-74—150; Robert Burns, Weston, Toronto, 77-72—149; J. Burns, Moose Jaw, Sask, 84, withdrew; Stanley Horne, Montreal 76-74—150; Bill Kerr, Toronto 77-77—154. (Par is 72-72—144.)

Deciding Game Tomorrow

Centrals Whip Moose 15-2 To Square Fastball Series

Central-Aeroliners came back Friday night to blast two Moose pitchers for 13 hits and triumph 15-2 in a wide open affair at Kingsway Park and square the best of three City Men's Fastball League semi-finals. The deciding game will be played on Sunday afternoon.

Paced by Ken McAuley, who pounded out three hits in four trips to the plate, the Centrals were never in serious difficulty after the first inning. They scored three in the first, five in the third, one in the sixth and then added six for good measure in the seventh.

Al Clow was also powerful with the bat last night and highlighted the session with a homer over the right field fence in the sixth. He also banged out two other safeties in five times up.

Len Haines, who only allowed five hits in the series opener, found the going tough last night and was jumped on for 12 hits in six and one-third innings. He was relieved by Leo Cherot, but the damage had been done.

Aircraft Bowlers Organizing for Coming Season

Biggest sport activity at Aircraft Repair Limited is getting ready for another season. It's the warworkers' mammoth inter-departmental bowling league, which already has 50 entries for five and ten pin team competition. Last year 54 teams went through a 28-week schedule, with play taking place at the Recreation Co., Ltd. alleys. Closing time for entries is 1 p.m. Monday.

Sgt. Fred Detmold, of the plant's RCAF inspection detachment, is manager of the huge circuit. Directors of the league include Bob LeFeuvre, Foss Tackaberry, C. M. Murphy and Miss Mima Templeman, while secretary is Miss Irene Bowden.

This "inter-bowling" activity is one of the ARL sports association projects supervised by Bob Anderson, president of the organization. It, in turn, forms part of the recreation program conducted by the plant's special services section.

JOBSTOWN, N.J., Aug. 26—William Helis, millionaire turf enthusiast, believes New Jersey will become the postwar centre of American racing. That's one of the main reasons why he recently acquired the famous Rancocas Farm here.

Helis is a wealthy oil operator who has offices in New Orleans and New York. When he began considering the site for a breeding and training farm, his friends naturally supposed he would select one in Kentucky, because of the blue-grass state's in-between location and because of Kentucky's reputation for producing fast horses.

But the shrewd Greek is a man who looks ahead. His investigations indicated tremendous turf activity in New Jersey after the war. Moreover, he admires the men already connected with racing in the skeeter state who are planning new tracks for the postwar era. His favorite northern track is the Garden State Park at Camden, N.J., where the $50,000 Trenton handicap will be run today. Rounders, a Helis horse, is entered.

INTERESTED IN PROJECT

OF the several Jersey parks planned, the project that most interests Helis is the $7,000,000 plant to be built by the Hudson Park Racing Association at Secaucus, N.J., just across the Hudson rover from New York city at the entrance to the Lincoln tunnel. This park will be only eight minutes from Broadway and 42nd Street—the closest of all race tracks to the city proper. It probably will accommodate about 70,000 persons.

Although Helis has no financial interest in the Secaucus project, his faith in its future was a deciding factor in his selection of New Jersey and the Rancocas Farm as headquarters for his new racing dynasty—in which he already has invested more than $1,000,000. A dream plant of the future brought Helis and his fabulous string of the world's most expensive horses to Rancocas—home of great thoroughbreds for more than half a century.

Rancocas Farm—with its rolling pastures, 90 miles of fences, stately elms and oaks and three training tracks—comprises more than 1,200 acres. It is one of the wonders of the racing world, established by the late Pierre Lorillard, tobacco magnate, more than 60 years ago and later improved by Harry Sinclair, wealthy oil operator.

LARGEST TRACK IN WORLD

NOWHERE is there an indoor training track comparable to the enclosed half-mile feature at Rancocas. And the main outdoor track is the largest in the world—a mile and four-fifths. In addition there is a three-quarter-mile outdoor track for schooling yearlings on the turns. Of the 58 buildings, more than 20 are stables of various types. One big brick stable is "the infirmary" where horses are treated for ailments, and where thoroughbreds are given mud baths or hot-water baths for hoof trouble.

Gray-haired, bespectacled Helis and his young farm manager, Dr. William Wright, are early risers — out looking over the horses—95 of them—by 6:30 a.m. But trainer Ed Snyder and his assistance, Bill Booth, and the jockeys and exercise boys begin work at dawn. More than 50 persons already are employed at Rancocas, and that force will be doubled within a few months as more stock is purchased and brought in.

A new era has dawned for Rancocas and for thoroughbred activities in New Jersey.

Tigers Maintain Hopes With 1-0 Win Over Browns

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Detroit Tigers, scrapping to keep alive a chance at the American League pennant, pulled a double steal for the only run of the game Friday as Paul (Dizzy) Trout shut out St. Louis Browns 1-0 with a four-hit pitching job for his 21st victory of the season.

Joe Hoover and Eddie Mayo delighted a crowd of 12,056, the year's biggest week-day turnout at Briggs stadium, by squeezing across the winning run in the third inning. The victory in the first game of a four-game series trimmed the Brownies' margin over the fourth-place Tigers to five games.

Hoover led off the Tiger third with a single, Al Zarilla making a fine first bounce stop to hold him to one base. It was the only hit of the inning. Hoover stole second while Trout was batting and took third on Dizzy's infield out. After Roger Cramer flied out to short left Mayo walked, setting the stage for the twin steal.

When Mayo broke for second and was caught in a run-down, Hoover streaked for the plate, sliding under Frank Mancuso as the Brown catcher waited for George McQuinn's throw.

BOSTON'S CHANCE FADE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Hopes of Boston Red Sox to overhaul St. Louis Browns in the American League pennant race faded last night as they dropped a doubleheader to Philadelphia Athletics, 6-1 and 9-4, before a crowd of 23,302.

Five-run rallies sewed up both games. The fourth inning was the big one in the opener. Bobby Estalella furnished the climax with a three-run homer, after an error made all the inning's scores unearned.

The A's broke out with a 12-hit attack in the nightcap, when their five-run cluster came in the eighth after the Sox had tied the score at 4-4 in the top half of the inning.

Clear Weather Brings Respite In Robot Raids

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Clear channel weather which gave coastal batteries a chance to get flying bombs on the wing yesterday brought a temporary respite from the menace in southern England after the Germans had delivered their usual post-dawn attack.

One of the bombs, it was disclosed, struck the Royal London Opthalmic hospital recently, killing nine patients and injuring other patients and members of the medical staff. The institution is better known as the Moorfields Eye hospital. Many of the patients were blind and had to be led from the wreckage.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The drive for the German borders from south, east and west is now being made at an accelerated pace. On the west the Allies have a grand chance of bagging nearly all the German army in France. The open arrows suggest the direction of future Allied movements. The black areas in France are partly the result of guesswork. A full half of the country has been seized by French patriots, but the freed districts have not been linked up nor yet subjected to national control. Neutral countries are shown as shaded areas. Warsaw and Jassy are shown on the map. It is 160 miles from Sens to the nearest point on the German frontier.

Crew of Canadian Corvette Rimouski Back in Dominion

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Home from sea and the perils of operations in Channel invasion waters, the ship's company of the Canadian corvette Rimouski were back in Canada last night to say that for them the advance on France was a mere ferry job, so well ordered and protected that there was more danger of collision in the channel than fear of enemy operations.

"It was anti-climatic," said Lieut. Reginal John Pickford of Montreal, youthful skipper of the Rimouski which has the boast that never a merchant ship assigned to its protection has been lost.

With other Canadian corvettes, the Rimouski was shepherded for convoys of American material, still on the secret list. She was on the job two days after D-day and plied the channel continuously for 74 hours before her task was finished.

Members of Minesweeper's Crew Tell of D-Day Experiences

By ESTHER ESCH

Two Edmonton members of the crew of the minesweeper Canso, only Canadian ship in a British flotilla which cleared pathways for Allied battle wagons and assault craft on D-Day are home on several weeks' leave. The men are Leading Seaman William Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fleming, 12626 124 street; and Stoker Alfred Lock, son of Mrs. W. C. Hales, 10320 97 street.

Also home on leave is Leading Stoker Harvey Arnold who was aboard the destroyer Gatineau when it took part in the invasion operations on June 6.

The minsweeper's job was to clear parrallel lines across the channel for the ships that were following, and to sweep a large area in shore for anchorage. They then had to get out of the way as quickly as possible to make room for the thousands of landing crafts coming in.

"We went in at night", Fleming said, "and the shell fire from the shore batteries and anti-aircraft guns was really a show. It just looked like a giant fireworks exhibition".

"When we went back out into the channel at dawn," Lock said, "Thousands of landing craft were

Communities Are Planning Fall Programs

Community Leagues throughout the city are making plans to resume activities now that the summer is nearly over, and holidayers have settled down for the fall and winter.

Riverdale community hall, recently destroyed by fire, has caused a temporary set-back. According to John Moon, president of the league, adjustments will be made and until further notice, meetings have been suspended. Mr. Moon said that members will decide at a future meeting whether or not a new hall will be built.

The Alberta Avenue community rink and bowling green is getting a new fence for which the building started last week, according to A. C. Hopwood, secretary treasurer of the Alberta Avenue Community League. Meetings for the fall and winter have not yet been arranged.

Hon. N. E. Tanner Outlines Fish and Game Conservation

Speaker

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, who was guest speaker at first annual meeting of the Alberta Raw Fur Merchants' Association, held in the Macdonald hotel Friday night.

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, told members of the Alberta Raw Fur Merchants' Association of the Social Credit government campaign for conservation of wild game and fur-bearing animals in Alberta, at first annual meetings of the association held at the Macdonald hotel Friday evening. Wastage of natural resources cannot be justified, Mr. Tanner said.

Declaring the preservation of water levels on the prairies was most important, the minister said that on the east slope of the Rockies conservation of timber conserved water, making easier the existence of all kinds of game and fur-bearing animals, in particular the beaver. He praised the beaver for assistance the animal gave in improving water-courses.

Artificial rehabilitation of which fish hatcheries are an example, is only a "drop in the bucket" and could not be compared with the work of nature, said the speaker. It was most important that food should be where fish and fur-bearing animals are expected to thrive.

To carry out the government program, Mr. Tanner said four men had been appointed to assist the advisory board of his department, and the nine members of this board receive support in their work from the University of Alberta.

ASSOCIATION TO HELP

Fred Swartz, president of the association, thanked Mr. Tanner for his address and said that his organization would be only too glad to assist the government in its conservation campaign.

Colin MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the association, said success with a conservation campaign would be achieved by close collaboration between the Fish and Game League and the association. He looked forward to happy relations between the two organizations and provincial authorities.

Afternoon sessions of the annual meeting opened with reading and adoption of bylaws.

WOULD RESTRICT

Discussion followed over the question of qualifications for membership of the association with the purpose of giving utmost protection to Alberta fur dealers." A motion was carried that a suggestion should be made to the government that only residents of Alberta for at least two years would be entitled to membership in the association should be restricted to persons with two years' residence in the province.

D. E. Forsland addressed the meeting on the subject of new changes in game regulations. The seasons on beaver and muskrats, he advised, would be closed throughout next spring, but would be opened by order-in-council should the number of rats warrant this step.

George Keltie of the Fish and Game League spoke on conservation of wild life in Alberta. He gave an outline of work of the league, which included the bringing of pheasants and other game birds into the province.

THE QUESTION

Will the Germans resort to poison gas to defend their homeland?

THE ANSWERS

WILLIAM FRASER, bookkeeper: The Hun is not noted for his sportsmanship, and if the use of gas can do him any good he will not hesitate to use it. He seems to rejoice in dirty tactics. He used this weapon in the Great War and in my opinion the Allies should be ready against its use now.

HENRY HATRY, clerk: A rat is a dangerous animal when cornered. The Hun will be just as dangerous when the Allies start invading the German Reich. The use of gas is likely when this day arrives, and we should be well prepared for it.

JOHN CAMPBELL, machinist: The German people should be warned that punishment will be handed out if gas is used. I am of the opinion that Allied ascendency in the air has resulted in the non-use of gas by the Germans so far in this war. They know that the German cities would be showered with gas if they introduce this barbarous war weapon.

Housing Shortage Stems From Negligible Building in 1930's

Edmonton's serious housing shortage had its real roots in the depression years when construction of dwellings was negligible, a well known contractor stated Saturday. He said that throughout the years 1931 to 1936 inclusive approximately 800 homes were built against a normal housing requirement of not less than 3,000 for this period.

The situation in Edmonton and throughout Alberta was made more desperate, he added, as the provisions of the National Housing Act then in force, were not operative in this province, and while home building in cities in other provinces of Canada was maintained at least to normal requirements the program here fell to an all time low with only 84 houses being built in 1933.

With the present Dominion housing plan being made available to potential homebuilders in this province this contractor predicted that for many years Edmonton is likely to enjoy the greatest building boom in its history.

MANY CONVERSIONS

So great was the shortage of houses in the depression years, he added, that more than 2,000 residents of homes in the one family dwelling zone took the law into their own hands, and converted their homes into multiple accommodation units without bothering to obtain permit from the city architect's department.

It will be recalled that about four years ago John Martland, then city architect, reported these violations to the city commissioners. The report was referred to a committee of the city council, but no action was taken to make the home owners conform to the zoning regulations because there was no accommodation available to the families that would be disposed if such conforming action was taken.

The majority of these cases still exist, he added, and alternative accommodation must be found for them. A low cost housing plan would enable them to establish themselves in their own homes, and rectify a situation that was created under stress of economic conditions.

Indicative of the law between home building and normal needs during the depression years are the building permits for the period 1929 to 1938.

In 1929 the total of homes built was 418, and in 1930 there were 337. The latter year can be called the start of the depression. In 1931 only 210 homes were built with a further decline to 125 being registered in 1932. The all time low in home building in the city's history was achieved in 1933 when only 84 were built. In 1934 there was an increase in the number to 134, and in the following year a decline again to 122. In 1936 there were 130 built.

During this six-year period the normal home-building program

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Parents have a habit of looking forward with longing to the child's next step of development. When the baby lies down all the time the mother wishes he could sit up. When he can do that she wants him to be able to stand, to walk and to talk.

When he is nursing she longs for the time when she can prepare a formula and at that time she anticipates the age when three meals can be eaten with the rest of the family.

When he can walk, talk and eat with the family she longs fervently for the day when he can be trusted to go outdoors without running away and when that period is past she looks toward school as a period of relief from all the responsibility she must bear for the safety of an active, misbehaving child.

And so it goes. Seemingly she never anticipates the new problems that spring up with each new phase of development. She is unaware that when there is a formula to prepare she must worry not only about the formula but its preparation. She discovers then that formula-preparation and bottle feeding is a meticulous and time-consuming job.

She discovers that the baby in his crib stays in one place and is safe, while the child on his two agile feet can be into the icebox, turning on the gas stove, be on top of the linen closet shelves and out into the street, all in the blink of an eye. Her whole day is a ceaseless chase to keep him out of mischief and danger and her rest comes only when he is asleep.

Once he is in school there are contagions to worry about, as well as automobiles and other children with a penchant for expressing their angry emotions by the use of sticks and stones.

In fact, as every mother discovers, the really peaceful time of her life was during her baby's infancy. Luckily for her, the worries and responsibilities increased along with her experience and confidence so that adding them little by little she acquires the ability to bear her burdens instead of being crushed by them.

Naturally, everyone wants her children to grow up, but let them grow up in their own good time, don't try to hurry them. The problems come fast enough.

Our leaflet, "How the Child Develops," enumerates the natural growth phases from birth to 5 years. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Girl in Love With Two Men Wants to Marry

She Is Advised Not to Marry Either One Because Evidently She Does Not Love Either; If She Did She Could Make Up Her Mind

DEAR MISS DIX: We are three girls who would like you to answer these questions First Girl: I am in love wit' two men and cannot decide which one I love the better. Which one should I marry?

The answer is: Neither. You don't care enough for either one to take him on for keeps. Both boys have qualities that attract but they don't hit your fancy. They haven't that indefinable something that reaches down into your heart and makes you feel that life would be cinders, ashes and dust with them.

When you really fall in love, there won't be any doubt as to your feelings or your preference. You will know which man it is.

LOVES MARRIED MAN

Second girl: I am 18 years old and I am in love with a married man who has a child of three. He doesn't care for his wife, but I think he has deep feelings towards me. What should I do?

The answer is: Don't start out your life by breaking up another woman's home and half-orphaning a little child. It is bad business that brings its own curse with it. A young girl's love should have no regrets to darken its background.

An affair with a married men pays no dividends in happiness to the girl. In the first place, she smudges her reputation by having to carry on a hole-and-corner romance and she has to be ashamed of her love, instead of proud of it. In the second place, she will always have the stigma on her of having taken another woman's husband away from her even if the man eventually marries her. In the third place, if he doesn't marry her she throws away her youth and her good looks in wishful waiting for the wedding that never comes.

Don't do it. You are young enough and pretty enough not to have to take second-hand goods in a husband.

Third Girl: I am pretty and attractive, yet I have no boy friends. How can I get them? I like them about 19 or 20 years of age.

The answer is: Just now, when boys of that age are being inducted into the army, steadies are almost as scarce as hens' teeth and as hard to get. But, anyway, there is no infallible rule for snaring them in. All that a girl can do is to make herself pretty and attractive, be easy to talk to, and get along with and make the boy feel, without telling him, how handsome and wonderful he is.

HUSBAND'S CHILDREN

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband has two children born out of wedlock. I knew about them before we were married. Their own mother is unfit to rear them, and he wants me to take them and bring them up with our own child. He desires to legitimatize the youngsters.

My husband has been very good to me and he leaves the matter to me and I am anxious to take the children. What do you advise me to do?

PUZZLED.

ANSWER: I think it would be a fine and noble thing for you to do and that you must be a big-hearted and broadminded woman to meet the situation with such a good spirit. You are giving two forlorn and helpless little children a chance in the world and God will bless you for it.

OBEDIENCE

DEAR MISS DIX: Don't you think a child should be taught to obey when it is young?

MRS. J. S.

Answer: If you don't teach a obey when it is practically in the cradle, you never do.

Obedience is merely respect for law and order. It is what makes people good citizens, decent men and women, and it is because modern parents do not teach their children obedience that we have this wave of juvenile delinquency that is flooding the country and that nobody seems to know how to stop.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Plan Monday's dinner so that most of it can be placed in the oven about the same time—then do its own watching.

STEAKS OR FILLETS OF FISH, CREOLE

Wipe fish and place on baking dish; pour over the following dressing:

Two tablespoons fat, melted; 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon chili powder.

Mix thoroughly before pouring over fish. Let fish marinate 1 hour, turning frequently. When ready to cook, dust lightly with well-seasoned crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

SCALLOPED EGGPLANT

One large eggplant, 1 cup soda crackers, crushed, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon rosemary, if desired, 2 teablespoons fat, milk to cover.

Peel eggplant, cut into cubes. Add soda crackers crushed quite coarsely (not into fine crumbs). Add seasonings. Turn into pyrex baking dish; top with bits of fat. Add milk sufficient to almost cover the contents of the baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about ¾ of an hour. This simple preparation of eggplant is one of the most delicate and tempting. Vary the seasoning if you wish, using thyme instead of the rosemary—use minced onion or onion salt, or add a dash of nutmeg of powdered mace.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, crisp bacon, toasted corn muffins, plum butter, coffee, milk.

LUNCH: Leftover meat with gravy on whole wheat toast, sliced tomatoes, enriched soft rolls, butter, apple-sauce, cookies, iced tea, milk.

OVEN DINNER: Salmon or cod steaks or fish fillet, creole, baked potatoes, scalloped eggplant, left-over string beans, tomato and radish salad, enriched bread, butter, blackberry roll, coffee, milk.

THE SEA-SIDE

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color.)

Down on the TAN (use BROWN and YELLOW mixed) sandy beach little Susie May and Teddy are playing sand fort.

The sky is light BLUE, and far on the horizon you can see a GRAY (use BLACK lightly) steamer sailing away.

The sea is a BLUE-GREEN (mix just a trifle of GREEN in your BLUE and be sure to leave the tops of the combers white).

Susie May's hair is YELLOW, and her dress is PINK (use RED lightly). The handkerchief she is waving is PINK too.

Teddy has BROWN hair. His suit is ORANGE color (use RED and YELLOW mixed) with a white collar.

"Take your RED spade and build up the fort!" said Susie May. "For I see some big breakers coming!"

Susie May's pail lies behind the fort. It is a BLUE pail with RED figures on it.

The sun has made the children's bare arms and legs very PINK, and their cheeks are quite RED.

The lettering at the top of this picture should be YELLOW on a GREEN background.

THESE WOMEN!

"We just can't seem to keep a girl on that job. They all up and get married!"

Debunker

We talk about our hair "standing on end," but nobody ever saw it happen to a human being. There is a tiny muscle at the base of each hair which contracts when we are scared, and it gives us a feeling of prickling over our scalp, but the muscle does not make the hair stand up. Dogs and cats, as well as many other animals, actually have their hair stand on end when they are scared. Some scientists believe that human being did the same thing millions of years ago, but have lost the ability to do this since civilization arrived.

In 1941 we moved from ..... to ..... , and I think the thing we missed more than anything else was the daily .....

Well, only a month ago we were delighted to find our old friend holding forth in the leading paper here—a fellow in our office happened to cite "Ol' Doc Brady" said, and I stopped him to ask where he had read it, and so .....

First let me tell you, your article "How to Make Coffee and Win Friends" taught us how to enjoy a real brew for the first time. Whenever friends compliment Mrs. ..... on her excellent coffee she explains that it is made as directed by Dr. Brady.

I wish I lived near enough to meet you, perhaps on the bowling green, or to share a pipe with you ... (C. E. W.)

If you call, not on business bring your own pipe, if you have one your wife allows you to keep in the house, but never mind the tobacco. We have tobacco—three or four kinds to suit various tastes but all fit to burn in the house.

Readers who still think coffee is a decoction of tannin will learn something to their benefit by reading the chapter on How To Make Coffee and Win Friends in the red book WHAT TO EAT AND WHY—for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Aside from the important question of the proper brewing of coffee, a lot of people deny themselves the enjoyment of this beneficent beverage from one or another misapprehension concerning the effects of coffee. They take seriously the gratuitous suggestion that coffee makes one "nervous," or the notion that it prevents sound sleep, or the notion that it causes high blood pressure.

It is true that coffee taken within a few hours of bedtime will make most persons wakeful, but it is not true that coffee taken at breakfast time or even at evening dinner will prevent sound sleep four or more hours later. The effect of the caffeine in coffee, on the cerebral centrs, the heart, the kidneys, is of no more than 3½ hours duration.

Children under sixteen years of age of course should not take coffee at all.

Invalids should not decide the matter for themselves but ask their own physician whether they may have coffee.

Persons with coronary thrombosis, angina pectoris or other heart disease should know that coffee (caffeine) tends to dilate the coronary arterioles and so promotes freer supply of blood to the heart muscle—for this reason coffee is particularly prescribed in many such cases—but only the patient's own physician can whether, when or how much coffee the patient may take.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

There is an interesting point in today's hand. North found himself in quite a contract, especially when he lost the first two tricks. At this point East was in the lead. What should he play? If he leads a spade, he will not make a spade trick. If he leads a diamond, he will give his opponent a sluff and a ruff. East's proper play is the king of clubs, which is a loser anyway.

When I saw the hand played, East made the mistake of playing the three of hearts. Declarer played the four from dummy,

Duplicate. None vul

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening—♦ K 2

West played the ten and North won. The club finesse was taken, and when it held, dummy's king of spades was cashed and the spade finesses taken, losing to East's queen. East led back a spade, his best play at this point. North won and led the nine of hearts, and when it held, he was able to discard his two losing clubs on the ace and jack of hearts.

Canadian Women Correspondent Tells of Life Behind Front Line

By MARGARET ECKER

FRANCE, Aug. 26.—(CP)—You can eat breakfast in your flat in London while buzz bombs, hum, crumph and rattle the windows and a couple of hours later you can be sitting amidst the peace and beauty of rural Normandy with the fattest cows in the world grazing nearby.

Fifteen or 20 miles behind the battle lines here, except for the faint brumph of distant guns you wouldn't know there was a war on. It's a rest cure after London.

PANORAMA OF WAR

The flight by Dakota transport plane from London to Normandy is unrolling a panorama of war.

The water below us seemed almost studded with convoys, some steaming ahead, and when we came nearer the yellow wriggling line that was the beaches of Normandy, some riding at anchor, waiting their turn into the wharves behind the breakwater that we saw on our left.

Below the French countryside with its higgiety-piggelty fields seemed untidy and cluttered after English fields. At first, there didn't seem much sign of war. Hay stood in stacks in fields and stooks of wheat made geometrical designs below us.

COWS GRAZE

Sometimes the cows grazed at the rim of a bomb crater and here and there were roofless, bomb-shattered cottages and barns of grey stone.

We came into an American landing strip in a yellow haze, and obviously it would be a long time before we shook the dust of Normandy from our feet—hair, eyes and clothes too.

Jeeps, planes, tents, men on the air strip were covered with a layer of dust that made them blend into the landscape.

ADMITTANCE HARD

It couldn't be much harder in peace time to get into France. In the registration tent an American major shouted into a field telephone, and wiped the mixture of dust and sweat from his face. At one point we heard him say, "I have a shipment of war correspondents here—what am I to do with them?" in much the same tone of voice he'd have used if he'd found a shipment of Dresden china powder boxes on his hands.

Two French officers who arrived by another plane looked confused and baffled at the little piece of America their country had become and of them too, the major was shouting into the phone, "What shall I do with them?"

Finally the red tape unravelled enough to get us lunch in a tent in an apple orchard, where fat cows grazed and the only noise was the buzz of Norman Wasps on an offensive to get our lunch before we did.

The arrival of a woman war correspondent at 21st Army group headquarters threw a British brigadier into more utter confusion than it had the American major, and so it was good after bumping in a jeep over Normandy roads to come to No. 8 Canadian General hospital, on a meadow ringed with trees.

Here at least a Canadian woman war correspondent was welcome.

Kindly Service Gives Canucks Link With Home

By MARGARET ECKER

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Mailman for thousands of Canadian troops in Britain is a little, twinkling middle-aged English woman whose post is a wire cage in the Bank of Montreal in Waterloo Place, London.

Countless Canadian visitors to England, pre-war, as well as wartime, list Irene Maud Hopkinson as one of their foremost friends in a big, strange confusing city.

But Miss Hopkinson, perched on a long-legged stool so she can see over her counter, protests: "I haven't done as much for these nice Canadians as I would like to have. And now that I'm retiring, I'm sorry." She is leaving the Bank of Montreal after 28 years of service and retiring to a cottage in Surrey.

"I've made so many friends here," she said wistfully, looking across the bank where Canadian men and women in uniform were cashing cheques, depositing money and reading letters. "Canadians are so nice, I wish I could thank them for making my life so interesting."

An RCAF sergeant came up to her cage, and she greeted him with a smile, "I've a letter for you today," she said. "How did you enjoy that show I told you about?"

"It was swell," said the sergeant as he picked up the letter with the Canadian stamp on it. "Thanks for looking after me."

THE PERSONAL TOUCH

A Canadian lieutenant was next and Miss Hopkinson didn't have to ask his name either.

"Sorry, there's nothing new today," she told him. "How is your sister? She's been posted up north, hasn't she?"

"A Londoner can do a lot to help strangers," she went on when he had left. "I'm afraid most people haven't much time or patience these days, so I try to do what I can for the Canadians over here.

"I help them find a hotel, when I can. I tell them what shows are good, and the best way to get trains. I've even helped some of them get married—found a church and a clergyman and that sort of thing."

T. E. Roberts, the bank's assistant manager, explained that Miss Hopkinson has made the job a personal one. "She's never lost the personal touch, it's not a business arrangement."

Miss Hopkinson has handed over mail that has linked Canadians with home for 20 years.

"I made some wonderful friends before the war," she said. "A great many Canadians came to see me every time they came over—and now some of the same ones are back in uniform."

Petty Officer Is Married at Chalmers Church

At a double ring ceremony in Chalmers United church Aug. 18 the marriage took place of Miss Emily Williamson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Swan, and Petty Officer Francis Howard Poole, RCN, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Poole, all of Edmonton. The Rev. J. S. Clark, assisted by the Rev. W. T. Young, performed the ceremony. Miss Margaret Bruce played the wedding music and Miss Marian McClellan was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white sheer, made with a full skirt, fitted bodice featuring a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. The bodice appliqued in a floral design was fastened down the front with self covered buttons. Her bridal veil of illusion tulle was hand embroidered and held in place at either side of head with apple blossoms. She carried white gladioli, red roses and heather.

Miss Christina Swan was her sister's only attendant, wearing blue sheer with a chapel length veil held to her head with tiny blue flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink and mauve sweetpeas.

Best man was LAC Roy L. Suitor, RCAF, and John W. Bate and Samuel Elliott ushered the guests to their places in the church.

A reception was held for 100 guests in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Swan, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Poole, mother of the bridgroom, received with the bridal party.

The couple are spending their honeymoon at Calgary and Banff. The bridegroom will return shortly to his station at the east coast.

Miss Margaret Gallaher Is Wed To Sergeant G. D. McMullen

St. Anthony's rectory was the scene Friday at 7:30 p.m. of the marriage of Miss Margaret Gallaher, daughter of J. B. Gallaher and the late Mrs. Gallaher of Edmonton, and Sgt. Gordon D. McMullen, RCAF. The Rev. Father F. J. Elkin officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was dressed in a pale mauve soft wool frock in two-piece style. The jacket ended in a flare at the hipline, and the sleeves were three-quarter length. She wore a small black velvet hat trimmed with coque feathers and veiling, and her accessories were also in black. A corsage of Talisman roses pinned at her shoulder completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Roy Robertson, sister of the bride, attended as matron-of-honor wearing a two-piece pale yellow frock. The jacket was made with three-quarter length sleeves. She wore a small black hat trimmed in black veiling and her accessories were also in black. Her corsage was of dark red roses.

George Gillard was best man.

A reception for 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's father. The rooms were decorated with pastel shaded gladiolus.

The bride's table was set with a white cut work cloth, centred with a two-tiered wedding cake. Tall white tapers held in candleabras and bowls of roses completed the table decorations.

George Gillard proposed the toast to the bride.

Marie Deitz, receiving with the bridal party, was dressed in a two-piece frock of brown, worn with brown accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of yellow roses.

Sergeant and Mrs. McMullen are at 9853 90 avenue.

Dutch WACS Go Overseas

MONTREAL, Aug. 26—The first Dutch WACs to be sent overseas for service in the Netherlands East Indies arrived in San Francisco recently after six weeks of intensive training in the United States.

The Dutch women, who have come from various parts of the world, were enthusiastic about the just completed course with the American WACs in Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. They had but one complaint—they had all gained weight in spite of the strenuous training, which made them even more eager to go into active duty.

The girls expressed the hope to remain in the service until the entire Kingdom of the Netherlands has been liberated.

A contingent of Dutch girls from Canada recently started training in the United States in the same camp.

Home Economists Hear Address on Housing Scheme

KENORA, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP)—Any government housing scheme should include the services of trained home economists to ensure proper house planning, Mrs. R. D. Doig of Brandon, Man., chairman of the homemakers' committee, Friday told the annual meeting of the Canadian economics association executive here.

Trained persons should have an active part in planning home work spacing—where cupboards should be and many other practically essential details overlooked unless experienced and trained women are consulted, she said.

Ruth Dean of Toronto said one of the most important contributions the association could make was to train more and better homemakers in Canada.

Chicago Wheat, Rye Prices Firm

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Wheat and rye held firm in light trading today but oats were under pressure from commission houses and local traders and the market was weak.

Resting demand for December wheat at $1.53 1/2 steadied the market along with the buying of the May contract by houses with northwestern connections.

Generally, the wheat trade was slow with some selling of the September against purchases of December at around two cents difference in price.

Rye moved within a narrow range, reflecting indecision on the part of traders. Buying of September was credited to an outstanding local operator and the nearby contract was relatively firm. Commission houses sold fair amounts of December rye at $1.50 1/2 then the offerings dwindled and prices advanced.

The demand for oats was limited to resting orders. Lowering of the Canadian export tax and large northwestern receipts were factors in the trade.

At the close wheat was 1/8 to 3/8 higher than yesterday's finish. Oats were off 1/8 to 7/8, rye was unchanged to 1/2 higher, barley was unchanged to 1/4 lower.

EDMONTON LIVESTOCK

Weekly report from the Edmonton stockyards for week ending Aug. 25:

Receipts—	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep
Today	131	109	606	186
Week	1474	770	2281	1170

There was good action throughout the past week on all classes of the better quality butchers, but plain kinds very draggy and hard to move, and practically unsaleable. Insufficient good killers were on offer to meet requirements, and the trade could readily absorb more of this class, off-colored yearlings, however, are definitely not wanted. Prices on good to choice steers advanced 25c per cwt. The high for the week was $11.50 per cwt. paid for a load of weighty steers, the practical top, however, was $11.25 per cwt. Good to choice heifers were mostly from $10 to $10.50 per cwt. with a few lights topping $11 per cwt. Good light cows sold from $7 to $7.50, some heifery kinds realized $8 per cwt. Good heavy cows traded from $6.50 to $7 per cwt. Bulls sold from $5 to $6.75, with the odd one at $7 per cwt.

The following are the quotations:

CATTLE—
Good-choice fed calves	$11.00 to 11.50
Good-choice steers	10.50 to 11.25
Fair-medium steers	9.50 to 10.50
Common to fair steers	7.00 to 9.00
Good-choice heifers	10.00 to 10.50
Fair-medium heifers	8.00 to 9.50
Common-fair heifers	6.00 to 8.00
Good-choice light cows	7.00 to 7.50
Good-choice heavy cows	6.50 to 7.00
Fair-medium cows	5.75 to 6.25
Common to fair cows	4.75 to 5.50
Canners and cutters	3.00 to 4.50
Bulls	5.00 to 6.75
STOCKERS AND FEEDERS—
Good to choice steers	8.00 to 8.50
Common-fair steers	5.50 to 7.50
Stock heifers	7.50 down
Stock cows	6.00 down

Stockers and feeders under limited demand. Better grade weighty kinds moved fairly readily but the common light kinds draggy. Bulk of the steers of suitable quality traded from $8-8 1/2, heifers $7-8 1/2, with common kinds down to a low of $5; bulk of stock cows $5-5 1/2, with a few at $6.

Veal calves held about steady with quality lacking. Good to choice handyweights trading from $11-$12. A few choice heavier realized $11 1/2 but the bulk of the heavy kinds traded for $10 1/2 down with common calves down to $5.

Hogs steady and unchanged with light weights A $16.35, B1 $15.95, sows live weight $8 3/4, dressed $11, extra heavies over 215 lbs. $11; ridglings $11.

Lambs steady throughout with good to choice off-trucks $11-$11 1/2, tops off-cars $11 3/4, yearlings mostly from $6 down and good light ewes $5 down.

Margaret A. Latta, of Edmonton, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant at No. 13 Ordnance Depot, RCOC, it was announced today at headquarters, M.D. 13. She enlisted in the CWAC in December, 1941, and received her commission at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., on April 15, 1944. At present she is employed as an ordnance inspecting officer at the depot in Calgary.

England's huge 16-inch naval guns cost $225,000 each.

Cattle Trading Is "Uneventful"

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(CP)—The Dominion department of agriculture in its livestock market review said yesterday an "uneventful" trading session was experienced in markets during the last week, but that "fair activity" was seen in the cattle division, where price tendencies were mixed.

Cattle price changes were minor, as were those for calves and hogs. Despite harvesting operations deliveries of livestock to stockyards and direct to packing plants were fairly heavy.

Good killing cattle were firm at Toronto, but other grades were weak. Best of the weighty steers sold at $12.25, small lots at $12.50 and butcher steers at $11.50-$11.75 for a few. A few fairly good stockers reached $10. Good steers ranged from $11.75-$12.40 at Montreal, with a load of top quality at $13, and good cows $8.50-$9 and $9.50. Good to choice steers were quoted at $10.50-$10.75 f.o.b. country points in the Maritimes.

Edmonton reported good action with steers 25 cents higher, good kinds at $10.50-$11.25 and good cows at $6.50-$8.

BUILDING — REMODELING

LANDSCAPE YOUR GROUNDS

PLANTS suitable for ground cover purposes are divided into two types: (1) Those that are distinctly ground covers, and (2) those that are small dwarf plants but not inclined to spread. Terraces and steep banks usually demand a covering of some sort and can be made a thing of beauty by planting some of the evergreen ground covers such as the spreading junipers.

As a substitute for grass in heavily shaded areas, beneath trees and near buildings, ground covers such as English Ivy and Packysandra often answer the problem. Some ground cover plants have a limited use and will not flourish or be effective in some localities. Some grow vigorously and cover a wide area in no time. Soil and sunlight requirements vary greatly and should be carefully considered before purchasing and planting.

Deciduous ground cover plants worthy of recommendation for slopes and terraces include the two well known Hall's honeysuckle, lonicera japonica halliana, a vine which seems at home everywhere. Rose Max Graf, a hybrid trailing rose, is at its best when allowed to develop unrestricted. Its pure pink flowers and characteristic rugosa foliage make a wonderful sight. Xanthorrhiza apiifolia, shrub yellow-root, spreads rather rapidly, grows loosely to a height of 12-15 inches.

Evergreen plants for terraces and steep slopes include Sargent Juniper, low spreading and slow growing. It forms a dense mass and seldom grows more than a foot high. Juniperus horizontalis, the creeping Juniper and its varieties, Bar Harbor, Waukegan, Andorra and procumbeus are widely used. With the exception of procumbeus, which retains its green color all winter, these Junipers turn slaty- purple in autumn and winter.

Broad leaved evergreen vines such as the several euonymus radicans varieties, English Ivy variety, Periwinkle and Packysandra are useful both on sunny slopes and in shady places where a lawn is not successful. Euonymus is a low procumbent shrub, trailing, rooting or climbing by root-like holdfasts on the stem. These plants, commonly known as evergreen winter creepers because of the variation in growth habit, may be used as vines, ground covers and as small bushy plants. Recommended are the varieties vegeta, with fair sized leaves and delightful pinkish-orange fruits in autumn; colorata, whose foliage assumes a bronzy color all winter, and carrieri, with lustrous leaves and vigorous growth. English Ivy and Periwinkle will tolerate considerable shade.

Terrace planting includes slope covering of wintercreeper and periwinkle, with wisteria climbing over the doorway, and Juniper and Yew evergreens along the stairway.

Plumbing Vital In Home Buying

Many Canadian families which are forced, for one reason or another, to vacate the rented premises they are occupying find they must buy a house because no rented premises are available.

Plumbing, is one of the really big, important items in the home. It has considerable bearing on the resale value of the property. The health of the family depends on it. And plumbing can make all the difference between a home that is full of drudgery and one that seems almost to run itself.

So, if you find you are about to buy a house, make very sure that the plumbing is right, not only for today's needs but in terms of the investment of tomorrow. Ask yourself if there are enough bathrooms. What about showers? How sound is the piping? Are the sinks and lavatories the right level? Is there too much rust? And what about insulation? All the plumbing facilities should be thoroughly tested before signing the deed.

And, just to make sure, have a qualified plumbing and heating contractor go over the premises. Then, and not until then, you're sure.

Secrecy Is Lifted

41-Ton Churchill 'Crocodile' Giant Allied Flame-Thrower

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—British authorities last night took secrecy wraps off the fire-breathing 41-ton Churchill "Crocodile," a tank-mouthed flame-thrower capable of hurling its lethal blaze 450 feet ahead and even around corners.

The potent British weapon was introduced to the Germans at the Normandy beaches. Since then it has been used with what the British information services reported as "deadly effect" in burning a path for British and Canadian forces through Hitler's strong points in France.

The British supply council and army staff in the announcement of the new weapon called it the most powerful flame-thrower in the world.

Designed to burn out strongpoints of the Atlantic Wall and save infantry lives, the "crocodile" uses a special new type of fuel. Its flames can be ricocheted off a nearby surface, in the manner of a billiard shot, to burn out pillboxes and trenches hundreds of feet away.

The flame gun is mounted on a standard Churchill tank, with the fuel carrier in an armored trailer behind. The flame equipment can be jettisoned in case of need and the tank can operate thereafter as an orthodox Churchill, with no cut in firepower.

The announcement said British troops first used flame-throwers to put a coastal battery out of action in the Dieppe raid in which units of the Canadian 2nd Division constituted the majority of the attacking force, and have been working on their development ever since.

The Germans got the benefit of it all shortly after D-Day when the crocodile, newly built, rolled ashore of schedule.

China produces 561,160 hockey sticks annually in normal times.

World News Highlights Presented in Picture Form

Airmen From Canada, Members of Famed Fighter and Bomber Squadron, Blast the Enemy As the Allies Drive Toward Berlin

These three men between them have flown more than 130 bombing missions. They are, left to right: Pilot Officer S. R. Morrison, Toronto; Flt.-Lieut. W. S. Pullar, Calgary, and Pilot Officer S. W. Posner, Winnipeg.

Grouped around one of their Typhoon fighter-bombers in an advanced RCAF airfield in Normandy are pilots of the City of Ottawa "Beaver" squadron. Senior wing and airfield officers, and, of course, "Smoky", the Alsatian mascot, are included in the picture. The squadron is right to the fore in blasting Nazi targets.

Deadly New Canadian Weapon Revealed

Long on the secret list, a powerful new weapon, the "Sexton", a 25-pounder full-tracked, self-propelled mount, has been revealed to the world by Munitions Minister C. D. Howe. Designed by Canadians and built only in this country, it has already been made in sufficient quantities to supply the Canadian Army, and is now being made for the British Army. A modification of the Canadian-designed Ram tank, the Sexton is already in action in France. The gun for the new mount is virtually the same as the 25-pounder which stopped Rommel at El Alamein. It is shown being installed into the mount in the lower photo, while above a line of the completed mounts lumbers to the test ranges.

Promoted Overseas

Acting Maj.-Gen. Daniel C. Spry, DSO, 31, of Winnipeg, has been promoted to that rank from Brigadier. Maj.-Gen. Spry is a Permanent Force officer, and went overseas with the Royal Canadian Regiment in 1939. He has served in England, Sicily and Italy. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order for gallantry in Italy in July, 1944. His wife, the former Mrs. Jessie Elizabeth Forbes, of Halifax, now resides in England.

Freedom Follows Our Flags

In every area of France liberated by Allied armies, French citizens are revelling in freedom of speech and activity forbidden them for over four long years of Nazi domination. Symbolizing the return of liberty are the photos above, of Paule Truffert, 17-year-old girl who fled from her Cherbourg home when German officers occupied it, and returned when the Yanks took the French port. In the photo, with other Cherbourg citizens, she stands atop the breakwater, long "verboten" to citizens as the sign in French and German warns. Below, left, on the beach, she gives a French lesson to Sgt. Edward Watson, of Terre Haute, Ind. At right she reads the first free newspaper she's seen since the Nazi conquered France.

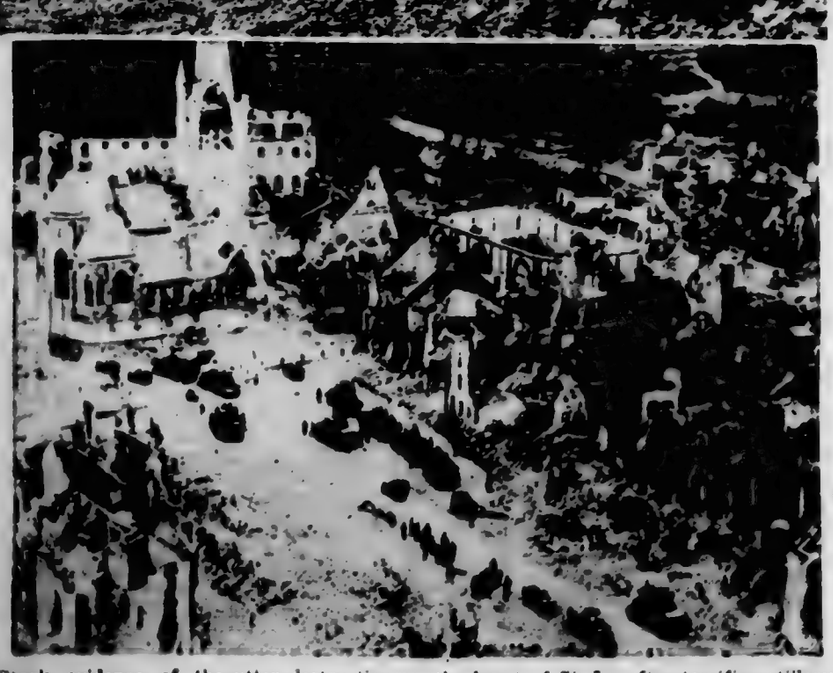

Prexy of the Perfect Legs

Meet the "Honorary President of the Perfect Legs Institute of America." She's stage and screen star Rochelle Hudson, pictured posing in New York with wink, contest-winning legs and casts which were made of them, presumably for posterity.

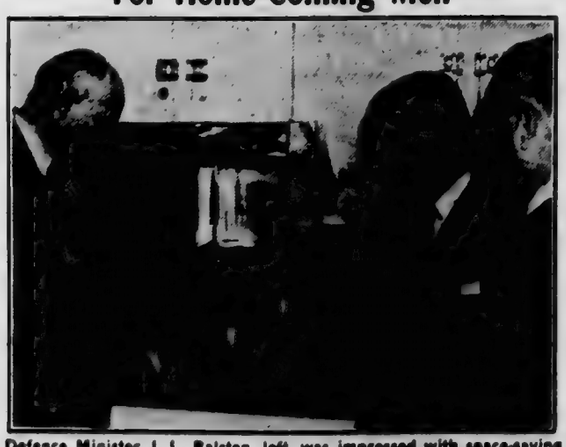

WAR PASSED THIS WAY

Stark evidence of the utter destruction wrought by modern war are the photos above, of French cities, taken after their recapture by the Allies. Top photo shows the heart of St. Lo after terrific artillery and aerial bombardment. Below is an air view of Perriers, with American armored forces seen entering the ghost city.

For Home-Coming Men

Defence Minister J. L. Ralston, left, was impressed with space-saving devices in the third hospital car which the Canadian Pacific Railway Company turned out of its Angus shops, Montreal, to the specifications of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and which he inspected at Ottawa July 13. Here he checks auxiliary electrical equipment for heating water, with Col. G. S. Currie, deputy defence minister of national defence (Army), and A. L. Suave, general agent, C.P.R. passenger department, Ottawa.

Bearded Veterans Home on Leave

Sporting full-grown beards after many weeks of overseas service are these three officers of HMCS Canso, now home on leave. They are, left, Lieut. W. D. Ebbels, Saskatoon; Lieut. H. M. Johnston, Toronto, Ont., and Lieut. D. G. Finlathon, Ottawa.

Nazis Withdraw In North Italy

By JAMES E. ROPER

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Copyright, 1944, By British United Press

ROME, Aug. 26.—The Germans were withdrawing slowly today in the upper Tiber and Arno River sectors, offering little or no resistance to British Eighth Army troops drawing near their vaunted Gothic line across Italy.

At many points on the western fringes of the Pratomagno Mountains the Germans were abandoning villages and carrying out demolitions, indicating the Nazis were planning further withdrawals.

British forces, following a heavy shelling of Apecchio, 16 miles northeast of Citta de Castello, found the town deserted when they entered it yesterday. Further west, Indian troops advanced steadily during the night through the mountains without opposition.

Other Eighth Army forces, in the Florence region, penetrated three miles northwest of Pontassieve, finding good positions the Germans had abandoned without fighting.

New York Boxer Is Disqualified

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Clyde English, West Indian light weight, was knocked down four times and belted out for keeps by Monte Pignatore, New York 136-pounder, last night at Fort Hamilton, but English won the fight.

Pignatore had English down for one eight-count and three times for nine but became overanxious and knocked him cold after the bell rang ending the second round.

Referee Young Ott disqualified the New Yorker.

Fighting Reported "All Over Greece"

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. — (AP) — The Russian-sponsored Free Germany National committee, quoting Turkish reports, said last night in a Moscow broadcast to Germany that fierce fighting had broken out "all over Greece" and in Crete between Greek Irregulars and German occupation troops. "In several places," the broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission said, "major units of the Wehrmacht, and in some places entire garrisons, were wiped out or taken prisoner."

BIG—ALIVE OR DEAD

YORK, Eng. — (CP) — Bill the Bull, the biggest bull in England since Pat the Great set up a record years ago, was butchered here, and when carved up provided meat rations for 1,537 people. The bull stood nearly six feet high.

Central Alta. Surgeon Dies Friday Night

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Aug. 26—Dr. Richard Parsons, a well known and highly respected resident of Red Deer for more than 40 years, died suddenly at Calgary on Friday evening. He was 69 years old. He had left here Friday afternoon to attend a meeting of the council of the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Born in 1875 near Toronto, Dr. Parsons was graduated in 1901 from Trinity College medical school. In 1903 he came to Red Deer to establish a practice. During the 40 years which followed his coming here, Dr. Parsons became known to thousands of people throughout Central Alberta, and was held in hgih esteem.

SERVED OVERSEAS

During the last war Dr. Parsons served overseas with the Canadian Army Medical Corps. He took examinations in the Old Country for the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, and qualified for FRCS (E). He was Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and was one of the charter Fellows of the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada. coming in and it was really a sight. Ships stretched from horizon to horizon."

RINGSIDE VIEW

Both men agreed they had a ringside view of the landing operations as their ship stayed out in the channel for weeks after D-Day.

LS Fleming, just 21 years old, has been in the navy for three years and during that time has only been five months' ashore. He served on the Prince Robert for 14 months before joining the crew of the Canso. He enlisted at HMCS Nonsuch in September, 1941.

The young veteran attended Calder school and before enlisting was a car checker on the CNR.

Stoker Lock also enlisted at Edmonton in December, 1942, and went overseas in February the following year. He was educated at Edson and was also an employee of the CNR before he enlisted.

PRIZE OF CREW

Prize of the crew of their ship is a tire from a Junkers 88, which crashed flaming into the sea close by the Canso. The crew salvaged the undercarriage and for weeks were all busily engaged making rings and other souvenirs from the metal parts.

Leading Stoker Arnold of the Gatineau, is the son of J. B. Arnold, 12756 118 street. He enlisted in March, 1942, at Edmonton, and has been at sea about 20 months since that time. Before joining the Gatineau he served aboard the Columbia, another Canadian destroyer.

Dental Officer Going to Coast

Lt.-Col. Andrew M. Palmer, district dental officer of Military District 13 since April, 1941, is being transferred to the western air command at the Pacific Coast as command dental officer, it was announced at headquarters of M.D. 13 Saturday.

A graduate of the University of Toronto, Lt.-Col. Palmer started practicing dentistry in Calgary as a member of the school dental clinic. Later he operated a private practice in that city. He is a past president of the Alberta Dental Association and was commissioned in the Canadian Dental Corps in October, 1939. His successor in M.D. 13 has not yet been appointed.

Home Building Shortage Stems From Early 30's

should have been approximately 500 houses each year to take care of population influx and normal population growth.

Actually, in the six years, only 806 homes were constructed, compared with a needed 3,000. The slack of 2,000 was taken care of through the illicit conversion of one-family dwellings to multiple housing units.

AN IMPROVEMENT

In 1937 an improvement was shown in the number of homes built. That year 203 dwellings were completed, but this was about 250 short of requirements to meet population increase. In 1938 a further increase of 256 was noted, and in 1939 the total built had risen to 350. Despite this increase in the number of homes being built the normal requirement of the city was not being met.

In 1940 there were 409 homes constructed, but there was still a lag of at least 110 homes to meet the population increase of that year. It was not until 1941 when 511 homes were built that the home building program came within striking distance of meeting normal housing needs.

But by that time the city was teeming with war workers, and accommodation was so difficult to obtain that families were doubling up in single rooms, and many transients were forced to sleep on floors in church basements and any other lodging that would put a roof over their heads.

In 1942, owing to drastic shortage of materials and labor, the home building in the city showed a decline to 476, but in 1943, under the impetus of the Wartime Housing Ltd. program, and a relaxation of the stringency of the materials and labor supply, 1,073 permits were issued for new homes.

PERMITS ISSUED

This year, up to the end of July, 660 permits for new homes had been issued, and during July it is estimated that more than 100 additional permits will be issued, to bring the total for the eight months to well over 700.

With the back log of homes needed, and normal requirements on population increase more than 1,200 homes must be built in the city for the next five years to provide normal accommodation to all families now living in make-shift quarters, the contractor estimated.

COPYRIGHT 1944 NATIONAL NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

JERRY SIEGEL AND JOE SHUSTER

SUPERMAN, CLEANING UP THE WATERS AROUND A JAP-HELD ISLAND WHICH IS SCHEDULED FOR ATTACK BY AN AMERICAN TASK FORCE, IS HELD BELOW THE SURFACE BY A CLUSTER OF GIANT CLAMS...

THIS IS RATHER INCONVENIENT— EVERY TIME I FREE MYSELF FROM ONE OF THESE BIVALVES, ANOTHER GRABS ME.

AND EVEN MY SUPER-LUNGS CAN'T GO FOREVER WITHOUT AIR, SO—

WITH A MIGHTY HEAVE, THE MAN OF STEEL HURLS HIMSELF AND HIS CAPTORS HIGH INTO THE AIR—

I BELIEVE THIS IS HOW THE SEA GULLS DO IT...

—TO CRASH DOWN ON THE HARD SHORE A MOMENT LATER, DESTROYING THE HUGE MOLLUSKS.

AH—THAT'S BETTER! I WAS BEGINNING TO FEEL CLAMMY!

USING THE SAME TACTICS, SUPERMAN DESTROYS THE REST OF THE GIANT CLAMS. THEN—

LET'S SEE, NOW. THE MEDICAL OFFICER SAID THIS PLACE WAS INFESTED WITH POISONOUS INSECTS—SO I GUESS SOME SUPER-EXTERMINATING IS NEXT ON THE LIST...

FLYING FASTER THAN THE EYE CAN FOLLOW, SUPERMAN ZOOMS OVER THE ENTIRE ISLAND, SLAPPING DOWN INSECTS AS A P-38 SLAPS DOWN ZEROS!

OWW! SUPERMAN FINE FELLA—KILL ALL BUGS FOR US!

OWW! CURE MORE WORSE THAN TROUBLE!

OWW! WHY HE SO GOOD TO US?

NEXT ON THE LIST—SNAKES. COME ON, BOYS!

IN CASE I MISSED ANY INSECTS, I'D BETTER LET YOU CHAPS LIVE—AFTER REMOVING YOUR ARTILLERY!

AIIEE!! HE PULL FANGS WITH BARE HANDS!

LATER, SUPERMAN BORROWS A LAWN MOWER FROM THE JAP STORES, AND—

THIS SAW GRASS MAKES CUTS THAT FESTER, SO—BETTER MOW IT DOWN!

THANK YOU SO MUCH.

MUCH GRATITUDE, SUPERMAN. YOU CLEAR LAGOON OF SHARK AND BARRACUDA, CLEAN SHARP CORAL FROM WATER, ERADICATE CLAMS, DESTROY INSECTS, FIX SNAKES, ALTOGETHER MAKE NASTY ISLAND TROPICAL PARADISE. HOW COME?

WELL, DON'T THINK I DID IT BECAUSE I LIKE YOU—BE-CAUSE I DON'T!
